

BIG AUTOMOBILE SHOW
NOW IN FULL SWING
AT THE KASINO

The first annual automobile show under the auspices of the Lowell Motor Car Dealers opened last night at the Kasino in Thorndike street and hundreds of people flocked to make an inspection of the new models of various makes of cars and also view the beautiful decorations. The latter which were described in yesterday's paper were greatly admired. The interior of the hall being transformed into a palace of beauty. A concert program of rare excellence was carried out by Miner's and Doyle's orchestra.

There were about forty cars of various descriptions on exhibition and many on hand to explain the different points of each car. It did not matter whether a person wanted to buy or not he or she was given the same cordial treatment that a prospective purchaser received.

Last night was governor's night and the guest of honor was Lieut. Gov. Calvin Coolidge. He represented the governor, who was unable to be present owing to a previous engagement. Prior to the lieutenant governor going to the Kasino he was tendered a banquet at the Harristonia hotel.

Today's Program

This afternoon the pupils of the high school flocked to the place and faced the hall to its capacity. Special prizes of $5, $3 and $1 have been offered to the pupil writing the best 200 word description of any car on exhibition at the show.

Tonight will be board of trade night and it is expected that the attendance will be very large. There are special features scheduled for tonight and features of the members of boards of trades of other cities in the vicinity are expected to be on hand. Music

CITY HALL CHANGES
REMOVAL
MIX-UP
FIRE DEPT.
TODAY

If the superior court in Boston rules to issue the writs of mandamus petitioned for by counsel of Robert J. Thomas, Andrew G. Stiles and Edward H. Poye, who have been removed by the majority of the council from their offices of water superintendent, city treasurer and collector of taxes, and city purchasing agent respectively, and who are contesting their removals on the grounds of illegal procedure, another legal question may arise as to the payment of any money to the present incumbents of these offices. Of course there is no real head of the water department at present as Robert Gardner, named as Mr. Thomas' successor, has not qualified for the office, but the other two men, Fred H. Rooms and Maximo Lepino are now holding office.

There is no provision made in any of the three writs to restrain the city treasurer from paying over any money to the present incumbents should the court rule that the ousted men shall be recognized as still holding office.

City Solicitor Varnum said this morning that lawyers and judges have always been at odds over this legal point and he was not able to say just what would eventually.

Commissioner George H. Brown announced this noon that he had made several changes in the fire department.

Capt. Herbert A. Merrill, who has been at the head of Hose 12 in West Sixth street, has been transferred to Truck 3 at the Central fire station to take the place made vacant by the death of the late Capt. F. E. Fuller.

Lieut. Charles E. Abare of Hose 12 has been promoted to the captaincy of the same company to succeed Capt. Merrill.

Alfred P. Passot, hoseman at Hose 2 in Lincoln street, has been promoted to the rank of lieutenant and will be stationed at Hose 12.

Capt. Richard E. Burns of Hose 3 has been transferred to Engine 6. Capt. David J. Hurley of that company being unable to attend to his duties at the present time.

Martin S. McNally has been transferred from Engine 4 to Hose 9.

John J. Donohoe of Hose 7 goes to Hose 11.

G. S. Mooney has been transferred from Truck 4 to Hose 3.

All of the above changes went into effect today. It was announced that Ben Simpson who was recently appointed a regular man and located at the central fire station had failed to pass the doctor's examination and tomorrow will return as a call man attached to Hose 12.

Stock Market Notes

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—An advance of 14 points in Bethlehem Steel, presumably in anticipation of the action of the directors, was the only striking feature of today's early trading, changes elsewhere being restricted to nominal gains and declines. Advances in United States Steel, the shipyards, International Paper and American Telephone were offset by corresponding losses in the motors, General Electric, the oil and sugar stocks. Gains were generally reduced on secondary offerings.

Bethlehem Steel yielded 10 points of its gain soon after the opening, and the active list as a whole eased from 1 to 2 points before prices hardened again. S. Steel rose a point on the rebound with 1 to 2 for sugars, oils, particularly California Petroleum, Sears-Roebuck and Harvester corporation preferred; but Marines were backward with gas shares, Industrial Alcohol and Baldwin Locomotive. Reading and Long Island, the latter at an advance of 2 1/2 points, were the only noteworthy features among rails. Trading languished in the second hour but prices made further improvement. Bonds were irregular.

Boston Market
NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Early trading in mining shares in the local market today was dull and featureless. Price changes were generally insignificant with fractional declines the rule in the trading of active issues.

"LEAK" INQUIRY IS RESUMED AT NEW YORK

Searchlights of Committee to be Turned on All "Short" Deals on Exchange From Dec. 10 to Dec. 23—On Such Speculation, If Any, Profits Were Made on Advance Information, it is Averred

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Searchlights of the house rules committee in the "leak" inquiry are to be turned immediately on all the "short" deals which took place on the stock exchange from Dec. 10 to Dec. 23. It was on such speculation, if any, that profits were made on advance information regarding the president's recent peace note, it is averred.

That this feature of the inquiry may be expedited the committee at its first session today ordered H. G. S. Noble, president of the stock exchange, to "request" the governing board of the exchange to ask its members to supply the committee forthwith with a list of all their transactions between Dec. 10 and Dec. 23, designating all customers by their real names and not by numbers or appellations.

The statements requested also are to show the number of stocks borrowed, by whom and to whom loaned and the date returned.

With this information in hand, the committee believes it can soon determine if there is any basis to the charges of immense profit-taking through "short" selling on possession of "leak" information.

Noble was the first witness called after Sherman L. Whipple, counsel for the committee, had made his opening statement. It was featured by an outline of the immediate plans of the committee contemplating inquiry into nothing save the "leak" said to have occurred in connection with the president's peace note. Noble was questioned particularly as to the operations of "short" pools and the propriety of speculators accentuating unfavorable news by selling stocks in order to depress the price and "cover" at a profit. He said he saw no impropriety in such operations. He was told that if the board of governors did not obtain records desired the committee would be compelled to make its own search.

Noble agreed to place the matter before the governors this afternoon.

Samuel P. Stettin, chairman of the stock exchange clearing house, the second witness, explained its operations.

WOULD HAVE EACH SENATOR
SPEAK AN HOUR ON PRES.
WILSON'S PEACE POLICY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Senator Cramm of Iowa submitted a resolution to the senate today which would devote the senate beginning next Monday to a full and free discussion of the president's world peace policy expressed in his message yesterday. All other business would be excluded until every senator had an opportunity to speak not more than one hour.

Chairman Stone of the foreign relations committee objected to immediate consideration and action was deferred until tomorrow.

The resolution cited that inasmuch as the president's address called for no official legislative action and that the president had invited free and frank expression of opinion for guidance in a matter and peace of the world, it was the bounden duty of the senate to thoroughly consider the proposals and to advise the president regarding them.

"In the present pressure of public business," said Senator Stone, "I shall have to object to setting aside a whole week for that's what it would take merely to hear speeches or opinions regarding the president's address made yesterday. Such a thing is wholly out of the question at this time."

Senator Cramm insisted that his resolution had a right to lie over for a day without reference and said he would object to its going to the committee.

Senator Stone then withdrew his motion and the question will come up tomorrow and probably will precipitate general debate of all the issues involved.

69 KILLED, 400 INJURED BY EXPLOSION WITHDRAWAL OF
ORDERED

LONDON, Jan. 23.—The casualties due to last Friday night's explosion were officially announced today to comprise 69 killed, 72 seriously injured and 328 slightly injured. This, it is stated, is believed to comprise the complete list.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Withdrawal of the outposts of General Pershing's force in Mexico has been ordered by the war department with the approval of President Wilson. There were intimations today that as soon as the outposts are brought in the movement of the main body of troops toward the border will be begun.

No date for the sending of Ambassador Fletcher to the Mexican capital has been set, it was stated officially today.

The question of lifting the embargo on the exportation of arms into Mexico is being considered, but no decision has been reached because of the complexity of the problem.

The position of the government, it was learned, is that the embargo will be lifted as soon as the administration can be sure that the arms will go to the proper authorities.

AUTO DRIVERS FINED FOR FAST DRIVING AND DRUNKENNESS

There was a variety of cases presented before Judge Enright in police court this morning, the docket being an extra long one.

Paul A. Bogossian, through his counsel, entered a plea of not guilty to a complaint charging him with operating an automobile at an unreasonable rate of speed and after the testimony in the case had been heard the defendant was found guilty and ordered to pay a fine of $25.

Thomas H. Chinn, chauffeur for the United States Carriage Co., said that at about two o'clock on the morning of December 25th while he was driving an automobile from Maple street into Gorham street, a car operated by Bogossian ran into his machine. Witness said he had a party in his machine who were going around singing Christmas carols. He said that he was traveling about four miles an hour when he turned from Maple street into Gorham street but that the defendant was going at least 35 miles an hour. On cross-examination the witness denied that he had drunk anything that night.

Two other witnesses who were in the machine at the time of the accident corroborated the testimony offered by the complainant.

Richard Holden, who was also in the automobile operated by Mr. Chinn said that Bogossian gave the wrong registration number of his machine.

No defense was offered and after counsel for the defense made a short

SACO-LOWELL COMP'Y TO BUILD $200,000 PLANT

If the city votes to close Kitson street as a public thoroughfare, a hearing on which is scheduled to be held at city hall on Friday evening, Jan. 26, at 7:30 o'clock, the Saco-Lowell shops expect to erect a new plant, practically a duplication of the present Kitson shop in Dutton street and of almost similar capacity. The cost will be about $200,000 equipped.

The Saco-Lowell Co. has no definite plans laid out at present but the tentative plan calls for a building which will extend a distance of about 215 feet down Dutton street, three or five stories in height and of modern mill construction. It will be connected with the present Kitson plant by an ell. In the courtyard formed by this ell it is planned to build a basement and one-half story building which will be used as a storage plant.

If the new mill is erected it will do away with the four or five corporation cottage houses which border the park space in Dutton street, as the new building will extend across the open area. The new mill will offer employment to about 300 more hands and will be given over to the manufacture of cotton and woolen mill machinery. The Kitson plant is now overcrowded and the company sees an imperative need of expansion.

It is believed that the city will act favorably on the petition to close Kitson street and if so it is thought that the Saco-Lowell officials will at once begin to form tangible plans for the new structure.

BULGARS CROSS DANUBE
AND HOLD GROUND

A new development in the Rumanian campaign was revealed in today's German official statement which reports a Bulgarian movement northward in Dobruja against the southern estuary of the Danube.

The crossing was effected near Tulch, 38 miles southeast of Galatz and places the Bulgarians, apparently, on one of the large islands which stud the course of the river near its mouth. The Teutonic advance is thus carried nearer the Bessarabian boundary, which here is formed by the northern estuary of the Danube.

Otherwise the operations on the various fighting fronts have been mostly raising enterprises. The German report mentions a successful movement of this nature by Bavarian troops near Armentieres and the repulse of a British detachment moving against the German lines in the vicinity of Fromelles on the Franco-Belgian line, likewise the driving off of Russian raiders who had entered the German line trenches in the Dvinsk region on the Russian front.

It remains to be developed whether the Bulgarian move is the prelude to an effort to turn the Russian left flank by completing the crossing of the stream at this far easterly point in any event it gives Field Marshal von Mackensen a firmer hold on the Danube near its mouth, the only stretch where he had not complete control of the river. Along the remainder of the Rumanian front there have been only engagements be-between advance detachment, these resulting favorably to the Teutonic forces, notably in the Kasino valley region where a Russian attack in some force was repulsed, according to Berlin.

ON FRENCH FRONT

PARIS, Jan. 23.—There was rather violent cannonading between the Oise and the Aisne last night the war office announced today. Elsewhere along the front in France quiet prevailed.

In aerial operations two German machines were brought down by French aviators.

CHINESE NEW YEAR

Yesterday was Chinese New Year's day, or in their own language, "Gong xi fat toy," and it marked the beginning of the year 4955, the feast was served by many, especially in the large cities of China, although when China became a republic it adopted the Gregorian calendar. The celebration of the Chinese New Year's in olden days lasted eight days and consisted of various odd ceremonies.

A Dramatic Death

Aeschylus, an illustrious Greek poet, who lived two thousand, four hundred and thirty years ago, died in a way distinctly his own. He was held, as he sat meditating one day an eagle with a turtle in its beak flew over him. Wishing to break the turtle's shell and taking Aeschylus' head for a rock, the eagle dropped the turtle on the head of the poet, killing him instantly.

Now Aeschylus died not unintentionally. Nor do most department stores. But we take care to never make the mistake, resulting in the end that it would mean death to our business—a dramatic and sure as that of Aeschylus.

POPE ASSISTS IN LOCATING LOST SOLDIERS

ROME, Jan. 23.—Pope Benedict XV., through the department of lost soldiers established at the Vatican, has aided in learning the whereabouts of more than 10,000 lost soldiers about whom heart-broken relatives had inquired through personal appeals to His Holiness. He is receiving, and has received since the war began, some 20 letters a day from distracted parents, wives and sweethearts in all of the belligerent nations, pleading that he use his good offices to learn whether the loved ones, about whom they have been unable to hear anything, are dead, wounded, sick or prisoners.

The pope has found this one of the saddest phases of the war. Notwithstanding the size of his daily mail, he reads all such letters himself.

LOWELL AND LAWRENCE CIGARMAKERS

SMOKEMAKERS WILL MEET ON LES MISERABLES ALLEYS TOMORROW NIGHT

The Lawrence cigarmakers are coming to Lowell tomorrow evening to play a return engagement at bowling with the Lowell cigarmakers. James A. Kane is the captain of the Lowell team and Fred Beck heads the Lawrence aggregation. A side line, and a very interesting feature, will be a match between William Scott of Lowell and a Mr. MacDonald of Lawrence. Both of the contestants are manufacturers and the event will be attended with unusual interest. The match will take place on Les Miserables alleys.

MORE OPPOSITION TO THE LITERACY TEST

About 600 members of the Portuguese fraternity of this city held a mass meeting in Odd Fellows hall last night and voiced a strong protest against the immigration bill with the literacy test attached, which was recently passed by both branches of congress.

The meeting was presided over by Manuel C. Pacheco. The outcome of the discussion was the recording of a unanimous vote to do all possible to prevent the signing of the bill and having it become a law. The meeting was similar in character and purpose to the one held by local Greek residents on Sunday.

NEW BRITISH HELMET

The steel helmet which is being manufactured for the British soldiers at the rate of 50,000 a month is believed by the British authorities to be the best designed and most serviceable headpiece that can be found. Advantage was taken by the designers of the experience gained from the use of the French helmet, or casque, and faults which had developed in the latter were remedied.

The British helmet is a round one of the largest steel with a narrow "lip" back and front, and designed with a much lower pitch than the French type. It is moreover perfectly smooth, having no ridges or projections for bullets or fragments of shrapnel to strike against, while its low pitch presents the smallest possible target for a direct hit from any direction. One of the drawbacks of the French helmet, owing to its higher dome, is that the collection of air in the top of the helmet produced an uncomfortable coolness, while at the same time the helmet was such a tight fit that the metal pressed unpleasantly on the head.

These drawbacks have been avoided in the scientifically designed headpiece produced under the supervision of Mr. Lloyd-George. Ingenious devices have been employed to secure both a good fit and a comfortable one, and to avoid any distress to the wearer. Inside the dome of the helmet are fixed a number of rubber studs, so placed as to take up the shock of a blow struck from any direction. They come between the helmet and its double lining of felt and wadding. The wadding comes next to the head of the wearer and covers it so that if a bullet should penetrate the steel cap and inflict a scalp wound, the wadding would act as a dressing. The helmet is secured on the head by means of a stout chin strap.

FRANCO-BELGIAN FRONT

BERLIN, Jan. 23.—By wireless to Sayville.—Successful reconnoitering operations by a German detachment and the repulse of a British party which attempted to move against the German lines northwest of Fromelles on the Franco-Belgian front are announced in today's headquarters statement regarding operations in that war area.

APPLETON STREET SEWER

Work on the new Appleton street sewer is progressing faster than was anticipated by the street department and city engineer. The two ranges of men have worked their way beyond Elliot street and are now ripping up the old sewer which was laid in 1852. The sewer runs down Appleton street to Elliot and through Elliot to Middlesex street. Work has gone along at a rapid rate so far principally because most of the ledge encountered has been rotten and is easy to drill through.

POSTMASTER FOR NASTUA

It is stated unofficially but on fairly good authority that Henri T. Ledoux, Esq., of Nashua, N. H., will be chosen postmaster of his home city to succeed the late Horace C. Phaneuf, who died recently. Mr. Ledoux is president general of Union St. Jean Baptiste d'Amerique, which counts four contingents in this city: J. N. Jacques, Carlisle, L. J. Theriault, and the Lowell friends who hold the presidency will come true. It is said that Mr. Ledoux is a close friend of Senator Hollis and that the latter is doing all in his power in behalf of Mr. Ledoux.

Drunk Driver

Alfred Claveau pleaded guilty to a complaint charging him with drunkenness and operating an automobile under the influence of liquor.

Sgt. David Pettie said he was standing in Middlesex street yesterday when he saw a machine zig-zagging up the street. He stepped into the middle of the street and held up his hand but Claveau went right by him. Witness jumped into another automobile and gave chase, catching up to Claveau in Thonike street.

Claveau testifying in his own behalf, said that he had only recently purchased the machine and was learning how to operate it. He admitted that he had been drinking but only had a little. He was found guilty and ordered to pay a fine of $50.

Statutory Offense

Emile Dumont pleaded guilty to a complaint charging him with a statutory offense and a fine of $10 was imposed.

They Pleaded Guilty

George E. Wentworth and Emma Caron were also charged with a statutory offense. Each entered a plea of guilty and the man was ordered to pay a fine of $10, while the woman was sentenced to two months in jail.

House of Correction

Charles Botnik and Anna Valok pleaded not guilty to a complaint charging them with lewd and lascivious cohabitation. Inasmuch as practically all of the testimony was given through the medium of an interpreter it necessarily proved to be a long drawn out case. Witnesses offered testimony to the effect that the woman has a husband in Pennsylvania and that several weeks ago she and Botnik left Chicago and came to this city. They were arrested in a house in George street by Lieut. Duncan, and Special Officer Moore. They were both found guilty and each was sentenced to the house of correction for six months.

Put Wife Out of House

According to the testimony offered by Patrolmen Rourke and John H. Clark, Edward Hollowood, who entered a plea of guilty to a complaint charging him with drunkenness, put his wife of the house at one o'clock this morning. All the woman had on at the time was her night clothes. When the officers entered the house they found a loaded revolver under his pillow and on further search they found 100 cartridges.

Hollowood said that he did not put his wife out of the house, stating that she left of her own accord. When asked what he was doing with the revolver and cartridges he said he had had the revolver for a long time and recently purchased the cartridges for five cents.

"I don't believe that your wife would leave the house in her night clothes with a cold night as last night and I see no reason why you should have that revolver. Continue this case until Saturday, Mr. Clerk."

Broke Man's Leg

Moise Savigne and another man got into a mixup at the corner of Bridge and French streets last night and as a result the latter sustained a broken leg and was taken to St. John's hospital. Savigne was arrested but the only charge preferred against him was that of drunkenness. He was held in the house of correction until he was able to appear in court. Judge Enright notified Lieut. Duncan to investigate the whole matter and report in court tomorrow. Savigne was held under bonds for his appearance at that time.

Other Offenders

Philip Novel pleaded guilty to being drunk and when he said he would like to go to the state farm his request was granted.

Frank Wrenn was sentenced to 30 days in jail and Francis M. Sullivan received a sentence of 30 days in the same institution. Michael Chin was fined $5.

Charles E. Daniels who walked into the police station last night and wanted to be locked up for the night, said he came down from Rochester, N. H., last Thursday and had been living in Middlesex street since that time. He was given three weeks to pay a fine of $5.

Loring Elliott was ordered to pay a fine of $10.

Henry Dubois' wife complained that her husband about her, gave her no money and was a heavy drinker. The case was continued until tomorrow morning.

Assault and Battery

Joseph Milner pleaded guilty to drunkenness and assault and battery on Harold H. Verge. According to the testimony offered, Verge, who is 15 years of age, was driving a wood wagon through Fayette street yesterday when Milner jumped on the back of the wagon, struck Verge and when the latter got off the wagon Milner struck him again. Patrolman William H. Wilson saw part of the assault and arrested Milner. The defendant was found guilty and ordered to pay a fine of $20.

Charged With Larceny

Louis Trudel pleaded guilty to the larceny of $25.00 in money from Fairburn's market. The defendant had been employed at the market, but owing to extenuating circumstances Mr. Fairburn said he would be willing to take Trudel back in his employ on condition that the former make restitution. Trudel agreed to pay $5 a week and on that condition the defendant was placed on probation.

Stubborn Child

Patrick F. Monahan pleaded guilty to being a stubborn child. His mother said she had done everything possible to make him lead a better life, but was unsuccessful. She said that the day before yesterday he stole $5.50 in money from her. The court sentenced him to Shirley, from which he appealed.

WHITTED A "HOLD OUT"

TED CANN ONE OF BEST SHORT DISTANCE SWIMMERS IN COUNTRY

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Eastern aquatic experts declare that Ted Cann, the crack New York A.C. expert, is now the greatest swimmer in the country, bar none. Ted has defeated every man of note within the last six months, among them Kabanamou, Vellmer and several other stars. The Wing Foot boy hopes to snatch all short distance records, both indoor and outdoor, before the 1917 season is over, and the experts are of the opinion he will do it. Photo shows Ted Cann ready to start in one of his recent races.

"BABE" CHRISTO LOSES TO BILLY CARNEY

"Babe" Christo of this city took a walling last night at the hands of Billy Carney of New Bedford in the latter city and was knocked out in the fourth round. Christo substituted for Walter Bartlett of California. Christo gamely stayed off impudently directed blows as long as he could but carried the fight to the two chorons and the Lowell boxer caved in.

nine times out of ten he got it. Did it take nerve to send up Del Gainer to hit for Larry Gardner in one of the world series games? Did Gardner, the man who was driving 'em out for an average of better than 30.0, sink because a utility man was sent up in a pinch? He couldn't have or else Carigan's system would have been shot full of a thousand holes. The Red Sox as they stood in 1916 were a ball team in every sense and interpretation of the word. They were not a dozen or more individual players, they were a ball team, a unit, working together in perfect harmony and accord.

To come back to the all-star team vs. the Red Sox. Alexander didn't stop Boston in 1915 and Johnson had only mediocre success against the world champions during the 1916 season. Cobb, Jackson et al would get hits off Ruth, Leonard and Shore of course, but would they score a sufficient number of times to win? If such a series was to be arranged next week we know of a few old dollars that would go down on the American league champions.

FOR LONGER BOUTS WITH DECISION IN NEW YORK

TALK OF INTRODUCING BILL IN LEGISLATURE CAUSES COMMENT

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—There is talk of introducing a bill at Albany to increase the length of bouts in this state from ten to twenty rounds, with a referee's decision and just to make life a merry one for the legislators who would do away with bob-tailed bouts, the New York Civic league intends to introduce a counter bill asking for the repeal of the law.

An attempt to increase the length of bouts will be sure to attract the eyes of boxing in this state, and they would be sure to rally to the support of any bill intended to round the death knell of the manly art of self-defense. Boxing has prospered since the making of the law now in vogue. There have been a few unsatisfactory contests, especially where great purses have been guaranteed, but in the main the sport has been successful under by basic struggles that were well worth while.

Time and again it has been suggested that referees' decisions be allowed, but the plan has always fallen through simply because it was thought best to let well enough alone. There has been an endless argument for and against the idea and if the bill to increase contests to twenty rounds and a decision is actually introduced at Albany tongues will wag all the livelier.

Willie Lewis is in receipt of a letter from Vienna, the French boxing promoter, stating that the greatest of the greatest, figures in French boxing circles, has been killed at the front. Mariot was widely known as promoter and club owner. At one time he conducted two arenas. He arranged the middleweight bout between Frank Klaus and Georges Carpentier, staged it in his own club and prevented Desamps' interference when Klaus sent the French idol to the floor for a knockout in the eighth round. Desamps was trying to signal Carpentier to claim foul, but Mariot balked the scheme by getting into the ring and insisting that the referee rightfully award Klaus the victory. In speaking of Mariot last night George Engel said:

"Mariot was one of the finest athletes in France. He was powerfully and wonderfully built, and his strength was tremendous. I've seen him tear two decks of playing cards into bits with as much ease as an ordinary person would break a soda cracker. He was a handsome fellow and a great favorite with the French people. Mariot began as a physical culture instructor and then became closely identified with the French Federation of Boxing. He was always for clean boxing, and, though he was warmly attached to Carpentier, he came to me before I sent Klaus into the ring and told me that I could not square deal him. He kept his word."

"When the war broke out Mariot joined the colors and won honors for his bravery while acting as a despatch bearer. I'm sorry to hear that he has been killed, for he was the best friend that boxing ever had in Europe."

Rob McAllister, the California middleweight, will get the first crack at Mick King, the latest boxer to arrive from Australia. John Weismann matched the pair immediately after McAllister's bout with Roddy McDonald at the Broadway Sporting club Saturday night.

William Miske who appears to be the most formidable middleweight, takes exception to the statement that he is a pupil of Mike Gibbons and that all the skill he possesses is due to instruction received from the St. Paul phantom.

"I had the gloves on with Mike just twice, and each time he tried to knock me out, but I did not let him. I did some boxing with Tom Gibbons, but he couldn't teach me anything about the science of the game. As a matter of fact, I picked it up myself, and whatever ability I have is due solely to my own efforts. I was a natural fighter, and I have always hit hard, with or without gloves."

"I began boxing three years ago as a professional and have been busy ever since. I am 22 years of age and as I am six feet tall I expect to put up a good record."

WILSON'S PLAN FOR WORLD PEACE

President Wilson in his address to the United States senate on the settlement of the war and a plan for world peace has actually startled the civilized world. In going before the senate he broke all precedents since the days of Thomas Jefferson, and in his declaration for a concert of powers to enforce universal peace after the war, he outlined a new policy for the United States, one that would be perhaps the very opposite of what Washington and Jefferson laid down as a line of safety in avoiding entangling alliances with foreign nations. But should President Wilson's plan prevail the whole world would be changed, wars and the national jealousies that lead to them would close and hence such foreign alliances would have lost their terrors.

But President Wilson gave good reasons for his departure. As the head of the greatest neutral nation, he felt that it was proper for him to lay down the terms of peace in which this country could conscientiously join. He pointed out that while both sides in the war desire peace their aims and terms are irreconcilable. He feels that a peace resulting from a complete victory on one side would not be lasting and he, therefore, suggested a plan under which the war should be terminated on principles of justice and right and under which the power of government should be based upon the consent of the governed. This means that such nations as Belgium, Rumania, Montenegro, Serbia and Ireland should enjoy their freedom. He specified Poland in particular as an example of a nation whose racial individuality should be preserved.

He rather deprecated the idea put forth in the terms of the Allies providing for reparation, restoration and future guarantees. He favored the plan of allowing every power to have access to the seas for commercial purposes which means that the Dardanelles should be opened to Russia and Bulgaria without driving Turkey from Europe; and he would extend the Monroe Doctrine to the entire world so as to forbid any one nation to invade or subjugate another. This is the most radical step of all.

To carry out these ends it would be necessary for the great powers of the world to unite in a pact of universal peace to be enforced by their combined armies and navies, although at the same time he advocated a reduction in armament to the extent that this plan might permit.

It is natural that a speech of such momentous import should be viewed in different lights by the statesmen of the country. Some senators pronounced it the greatest utterance since the Declaration of Independence, while others shook their heads and were non-committal. It is very evident that the plan will meet with opposition even in the senate, but in spite of this fact the speech is pregnant with vast possibilities for good; and it may even be instrumental in hastening the end of the terrible conflict that now afflicts not only Europe but the entire world. To see any such plan as outlined by President Wilson adopted would certainly indicate that we had reached the dawn of the millennium. We fear this world compelled peace so eloquently portrayed by President Wilson is beyond the most sanguine hope of realization. If so the blame cannot be laid at his door. He has done his duty in the name of justice, liberty and humanity.

HIGH SCHOOL CHANGES

While there is wide discussion over the construction of our new high school, very little is heard of the educational necessities that must be met by the new building.

At the present time there is a movement among the leading educators of the country in favor of dividing up the high school work so that there will be a junior high school to combine the two upper grades of the grammar school with the lowest class of the present high school and then cut the high school course from four to three years.

This change has been discussed in educational journals for over a year and at a conference of school superintendents, school principals and teachers with the faculty of the College of Liberal Arts at Boston university, Saturday, the idea was unanimously favored.

It is the next step onward in educational progress and it is one that may have to be provided for in this city in the very near future. The idea is that the change from the grammar school to the high is too sudden and that the junior high school would bring the easy transition that would bring better results. According to this proposition, the pupil would have six years in the grammar school, three in the junior high and three in the high. The arrangement, it would seem, would meet the requirements of the great majority of pupils much better than the present plan in which nine years are required to get through the grammar grades and four, or sometimes five, through the high school. The city of Lawrence finishes its school courses in a year less than we do and nobody hears any complaint over the results in that city.

It might be well, therefore, for our school officials to take this movement into consideration and determine whether we want two high school buildings instead of one, or whether any modification should be made in the plans in order to provide facilities for the change, should it come, as it will undoubtedly in a few years, perhaps before we shall have completed the new high school, which as contemplated is to be an extension of the old high school. We should take care to build for the educational needs of the future. What those needs will be for the next generation our educators should be best able to determine.

THE GRAYSON AFFAIR

Some opposition has been raised to the confirmation of Dr. Cary T. Grayson, a lieutenant in the medical corps who has been named for a medical director with the rank of rear admiral. This promotion is not regular. Dr. Grayson may be a splendid man, but the fact that he was physician to the president has given rise to the assumption that the appointment is due to favoritism rather than merit.

Promotion either in the army or the navy that is not based upon merit is unwarranted and damaging to the service. We have seen the effects in England where the scions of the aristocracy were placed in command. The army made no satisfactory progress until these feather bed generals were killed or weeded out. The real fighters have been advanced to positions of command and England is not likely hereafter to repeat the mistake. The military men of prowess are now the aristocracy. We have no aristocracy here and, so far as practicable, merit should rule where efficiency is the great aim, as it should be in every department.

THE MILITARIST TENDENCY

It seems that our legislators are giving a great deal more attention to the matter of military preparedness than to our industrial progress or our preparedness to meet the situations that will confront us some time after the close of the European war.

Every military man of prominence has tried to work out a plan for military service by all the young men of the nation so that we may have a permanent military system on a plan somewhat similar to that of the most militant powers on the globe. If the war terminates with a peace that will endure, our preparedness for war will be unnecessary, but so long as we have an army and navy of fighting strength, if we elect a president of fighting tendencies, such for example as Col. Roosevelt, we may find it difficult to keep out of war. It is to be hoped that our highest preparedness will be for the arts of peace rather than war. We are moving towards militarism with as much determination as if we were to engage in a world war after the present struggle shall have ceased.

AGAINST THE THREE DECKER

Boston has started a crusade against the wooden three decker as a fire hazard and that must be eliminated. It is proposed to extend the fire district, or as they term it in Boston, "the building limit," to include the entire city as a means of stopping the construction of this type of building. The insurance rates are higher in the districts where these buildings prevail than elsewhere; and it is alleged that greedy contractors put up these buildings in the flimsiest way and sell them while new so as to get rid of them before the defects in construction begin to appear.

Boston is right in putting a stop to the multiplication of such buildings. We might well follow Boston's example in putting some proper restriction upon the crowding of big tenement blocks so close together that in case of fire they would furnish ready provender for a conflagration.

PRIVATE SESSIONS

The aldermen of Somerville have voted to exclude the public from their discussions of proposed legislation. That will prevent a lot of gallery plays, of course, but it is not in line with the prevailing method in other cities under which every alderman makes a speech declaring his devotion to the people and making that the sole criterion of every measure, although in many cases what is claimed to be done in behalf of the people, is diametrically opposed to their interests.

Seen and Heard

The traffic cop comes in time to have a very poor opinion of pedestrians.

Have you ever succeeded in thinking out a profitable way to occupy your time while you are standing on the street corner waiting for a car?

A Pittsfield woman made a purchase and the clerk put it up. All the way down the street she noticed that she didn't move easily. The package under her arm kept slipping. Finally, she glanced behind and to her astonishment, observed that the clerk in tying up the package had failed to break the string.

Everybody Satisfied

Ice, a winter commodity, is what boys and girls like for skating on, ice men need it to store up against the day of filling fairly ice chests, and others of the fishing fraternity want it so they can cut holes in it and pull out pickerel through the holes. Any thickness of ice, so long as it is smooth and will hold them, pleases youth, the ice man want it about 10 or 11 inches thick and clear, and the fishermen would prefer to cut not more than five or six inches. No wonder the weather man has a hard job trying to satisfy all these desires, but it looks so far this season as though quite general satisfaction had been given.

The City

They do neither pligh nor weep in the city of the dead, in the city where they sleep away the hours, while over them range winter-bligh and summer change, and a hundred happy whisperings of flowers.

No, they neither weep nor pligh, and the day is like the night, for their vision is of other kind than ours.

They do neither sing nor sigh, in that burgh of by and by, where the streets have grasses grow, and cool and long, but they rest within their bed, leaving all their thoughts unsaid, deeming silence better far than sob or song.

No, they neither sigh nor sing, though the robin be a-wine, though the leaves of autumn march a million strong.

There is only rest and peace in the city of Surcease, from the fallings and the wallings, and the wings of the swift years beat but gently over the biers, making music to the sleepers every one.

There is only peace and rest; but to them it seemeth best, for they lie at ease and know that life is done.

—Richard Francis Burton.

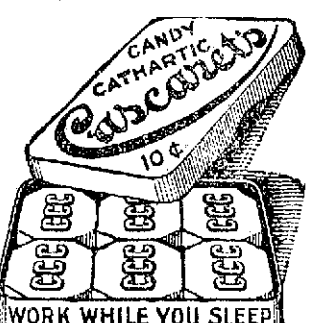

The Wars of a Pup

The pup had his own notions about what he'd like to do and wasn't always ready to come when called. So when the man whose name adorns the "come-ferax" the pup let one of his notions take him off to where some small boys were skating. It was a time when discipline should be called into play. Out of weeks of training the pup really did know what "lie down" meant. The boys should be taught that they

FAMILY DOCTOR'S GOOD ADVICE

To Go On Taking "Fruit-a-tives" Because They Did Her Good

ROCHESTER, JAN. 14th, 1915.

"I suffered for many years with terrible indigestion and constipation. I had frequent dizzy spells and became greatly run down. A neighbor advised me to try 'Fruit-a-tives'. I did so and to the surprise of my doctor, I began to improve, and he advised me to go on with 'Fruit-a-tives'."

I consider that I owe my life to 'Fruit-a-tives' and I want to say to those who suffer from indigestion, constipation or headaches—'try Fruit-a-tives' and you will get well'. CORINE GAUDREAU, 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At all dealers or sent postpaid by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ogdensburg, N.Y.

couldn't play with every dog that came their way. "Lie down!" commanded the owner. The pup just wriggled, jumped and barked, and one of the boys reached out his hand furtively for the dog to jump at and kept saying "Nice doggie." More commands failed of response, and the owner, mad clear through, started to walk off, believing the pup would surely follow. But the pup was having too good a time with the boys.

Half way home the owner heard a commotion behind him caused by a small boy and the pup. "Here's your dog, mister," said the lad. "I guess he's sorry he done it." But the dog wasn't sorry—only artful. It was a long time before the owner tried any more discipline where there were on-lookers.

The Old and the New

The old year is gone. We have said farewell to 1916. It is gone and forgotten.

Most old things are forgotten, for our hands are always outstretched to the new. Forget 1916 and welcome 1917! Close the door on the one and open it to the other.

Yet memory treasures the past. The old things of the old days of the simple life now and then recur and awaken our sweetest emotions.

The old school house, the old farm, the old apple tree in the orchard, the old well with its refreshing water, the old fashioned, simple meals and the old strength, health and vigor of the days of plain living—how dear the recollections of childhood!

The busy man in the great, congested city, perplexed by a multitude of cares, confronted daily by new problems, adding to his burdens, heaping up responsibilities while heaping up treasure, in a restless moment longs for the peace of the past.

In his reveries he hears again the tolling of the little bell that called him on Sunday mornings to the steeple-crowned white church on the hilltop in the village of his birth.

In the flush of success, in the mad rush for the new and the eager haste to discard and forget the old, let us spare a contemplative moment now and then to revel in the joys of the early days when ambition wrought its dreams of a golden future but left unrevealed the sacrifices, the cares and heavy burdens that success involves.

Lowell Man Took Friend's Advice

Suffered For 15 Years With Stomach Trouble; Now Praising Plant Juice.

Plant Juice is new. In a brief time it has sprung into world-wide prominence. There is no known medicine so effective in combating those prevailing ailments which are sapping the life and energies of city people, namely, stomach and nervous disorders. Many men and women who have suffered from stomach, liver and kidney trouble are now enjoying perfect health, due to Plant Juice, as their numerous testimonials show.

In a recent interview, Mr. Hugh MacLean, of No. 81 Fourth Street, who is employed in one of the largest mills in the country, tells how he was relieved of a bad case of stomach trouble by Plant Juice, after years of suffering.

"I have been troubled more or less for the past 15 years with my stomach and my food fermented and caused gas to form. I was badly bloated and in constant misery. I never could eat any breakfast and was so nervous that I could not sleep at night. I had terrible pains around my heart, caused from the gas, had headaches, was constipated and had pains all over my body. A friend who had been cured by Plant Juice, begged me to try it. After I had taken it for 2 weeks, I can now eat anything I want. I sleep well, my bowels are regular, and I feel stronger and more lively than I have for months. I can't praise Plant Juice too highly for making it possible for me to now eat and digest my meals, and am glad to give this endorsement for it."

The Plant Juice Man is at Down, The Drugstore, in Merrimack Square, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.

BRUSHING THE TEETH

Do you brush your teeth right? It is of the utmost importance to beauty. When the teeth decay on one side more than the other you will often find it due to the incorrect method of using the brush. You must likely apply the dentifrice to the brush and with the right hand use it first on the left side. The right gets only what is left.

Learn to use both hands and cleanse one side as carefully as the other. Get a new tooth brush every month and a fairly stiff one. Use dental floss between the teeth once or twice a day. This is not only good for the teeth but also helps to keep the breath sweeter.

A list of diseases which may be traced to decayed teeth is alarming to the thoughtless one who has neglected to care for her mouth at home and also by the dentist. A few of the better known illnesses that have been traced to bad teeth by reliable authorities include several forms of rheumatism, carbuncles and boils, anemia, tonsillitis and glandular swellings, neuralgia and toxic neuritis, diphtheria, gastritis, appendicitis, pleurisy, nephritis, laryngitis. Eat food that must be chewed. Soft food causes decay.

Brush the teeth night and morning and, if possible, after each meal. It is especially important, however, to remove all decaying particles before going to sleep lest they cause poisonous gases in the night when there is not enough saliva in the mouth to prevent harm.

Another effect from bad teeth, aside from the spreading of germs, is that food insufficiently chewed is not properly prepared to enter the stomach and is not so mixed with saliva as to insure partial digestion before being swallowed.

BLUESKY LAWS IN THREE STATES UPHELD

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Blue sky laws of three states—Ohio, South Dakota and Michigan—designed to curb sale of fraudulent securities were upheld as constitutional by the supreme court.

The court held that authority exercised is not in excess of the state's "police powers" and that the law is not a burden upon interstate commerce in the sale of stocks and bonds.

GERMAN EMBASSY GOT "INSIDE INFORMATION"

APPROVED OF BUSINESS OF MORGAN & CO. ACCORDING TO BRIEF FILED TODAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—The German embassy at Washington was at one time apprised of "inside information" of the business of J. P. Morgan & Co. on behalf of the French and English governments, through an alleged compact between an employee of the Morgan firm and a Washington lawyer who was a personal friend of Ambassador von Bernstorff, according to a brief filed in court here today on behalf of William J. Burns, detective and Marshall Egan, accused as tappers of private telephone wires.

Burns and Egan are charged by Seymour and Seymour with publishing the contents of private letters relating to war contracts. They are said to have done the alleged wire tapping in their efforts to discover the reason for a "leak" from the Morgan firm. Their counsel in the brief filed today asserts that in the fall of 1915, a Morgan employee, "intent on personal profit, entered into a compact with a lawyer practicing at the seat of government" by which information regarding the bankers' business on behalf of the entente allies was to be imparted to the lawyer, "who curiously enough happened to be not only counsel for the German government in a litigation then and still pending, but a personal friend and fellow member of the German ambassador."

The brief continues: "Pursuant to this wholly confidential agreement the Washington lawyer received from his co-conspirator, as he himself has admitted, by word of mouth or sending memorandums to Washington, a fund of illegitimate knowledge amply sufficient to apprise the German embassy of the concerns with which the Morgan firm had placed orders, the time, approximately, of deliveries and also the date of probable shipments."

"It is a matter of common knowledge that this was the period during which certain manufacturers of munitions encountered unusual and unexpected difficulties. Strikes occurred, machinery operated badly, and there were numerous mysterious explosions. Ships laden with war materials had similar experiences. Somehow it seemed to be known when they were to sail, whether they were bound, as well as the character of the cargo. This disquieting condition of affairs continued until the close of 1915 or the beginning of 1916, when the German ambassador is popularly credited with having prophesied a cessation or at least suspension of the disturbances and, strangely enough, they came to an abrupt termination about that time."

BERNSTORFF'S STATEMENT
WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, said:

"I know nothing whatever about any such thing as that," when informed of the contents of the brief filed in New York.

HOW THE MOEWE LOOKS TO HER VICTIMS; CRUISER GLASGOW ONE OF HER PURSUERS

One of the pictures reproduced herewith is that of a vessel (No. 2) of the same type as the Moewe, the German converted cruiser which it is now believed is the raider responsible for the sinking of more than a score of allied ships in the south Atlantic. The British have sent out many fast cruisers to hunt for the Moewe and to capture her or destroy her if possible. Among these cruisers is the Glasgow (No. 3), which was anchored at Pernambuco after a long search of the northern coast of Brazil for the German raider. The cruiser put to sea immediately to continue her search. The big White Star freighter Georgic, with sixty Americans aboard, was one of the Moewe's victims. It is known, although details are lacking, among the Georgic's command was Dr. Gertrude E. Nathan, a long-time resident of Lowell, N. H., whose picture is reproduced herewith.

Officials here assume that the two companies were engaged in the disarming of the natives and establishing the new government under the American military authorities.

LOWELL MEN ELECTED AT CATHOLIC FEDERATION

POSTON, Jan. 22.—The annual convention of the Middlesex county branch of the Catholic Federation was held yesterday afternoon in the Cathedral school hall, and was attended by about 150 delegates, representing 46 parishes and about 100 societies. Fr. Charles T. Daly of West Medford was in the chair. Mr. Ambrose F. Roche of Watertown predicted that the great war in Europe will end this year and that the labor markets of this country will be flooded with immigrants from the desolated countries across the water.

"Catholics in this country should," he said, "prepare for a year of unusual events—not only events of an industrial nature, but events which will be of fundamental importance to every citizen who has the question of the Catholic faith at heart, and which may be successfully encountered only by a united front."

"The coming year will undoubtedly witness redoubled activities by those who, through blind prejudice or lack of knowledge, are attacking the Catholic church."

Rev. M. J. Scanlon told of the work of the Catholic charitable institutions in the archdiocese. "For this work," he said, "$900,000 is expended annually. If the same work were done by the state the cost would be approximately $2,000,000. The convention instructed the executive committee to have pamphlets printed and distributed, setting forth the work of these charitable institutions. Rev. John J. Ryan, P. R., of Cambridge and Rev. Francis J. Mullin of Lowell made brief addresses.

Fr. Daly reported that the county branch has a membership of about 15,000, representing 70 parishes and 175 societies. He explained the Boston

JAPAN IS CONFRONTED WITH AN INTERNAL POLITICAL CRISIS

TOKIO, Jan. 23.—Japan is confronted with an internal political crisis. The opposition to the administration of Count Terauchi has opened a vigorous campaign on the ground that the Terauchi non-partisan cabinet was formed in violation of the spirit of the constitution. The constitutional party, which has a majority in the house of peers and is under the leadership of Viscount Kato, former minister of foreign affairs, has joined hands with the nationalists in the lower house for war against the premier.

The battle will be fought out in the Diet, which reconvenes today. Count Terauchi and Viscount Motono, foreign minister, will deliver addresses in defense of the administration. The press expects the outcome of the crisis to be dissolution and a new election. In his address in the house of peers, Premier Terauchi expressed satisfaction that Japan's relations with the treaty powers, other than the participants in the war, are "more and more cordial." He declared that Japan's policy is to stand united in the face of class or party dissensions and to adopt post bellum policies which protect the prestige and lasting interests of the empire and remove all causes of danger to peace in the far east.

The premier declared that the government was paying particular attention to its relations with China and would spare no pains to cultivate neighborly relations. "I need scarcely remind you," continued the premier, "that armament is an indispensable means of national preservation. Care should always be taken to keep our armaments in an absolute condition of efficiency and strength in due response to the situation among the different powers, our relations with other nations and in proportion to the wealth and resources of the country."

To be prepared against emergencies is the duty of the people shouldering the nationalistic idea and improving the public health. It is equally important that the national resources be increased and industry and commerce encouraged.

In the course of a lengthy address in which he unequivocally asserted that Germany's ambition for world hegemony was the true cause of the war, Viscount Motono dwelt particularly on the relations between the United States and Japan. Japan, he said, always has wished to maintain the most sincerely amicable relations with America.

"If light clouds," he said, "have occasionally obscured, however so little, the relations of the two countries they were generally dissipated by the common good will of the two governments. Certainly there exist questions, on which our governments may not be in accord, that happens even between allied countries. However, by examining even the thorniest questions loyally and frankly with a determination to settle them in an amicable and conciliatory manner, the means of reaching an understanding are surely found. This is the road which the two governments always have followed to the great satisfaction of the two nations."

"I observe with great joy the symptoms of most genuine sympathy manifested for some time between the two countries. Thus proposals for common action in the financial affairs of China have been made by American capitalists. The imperial government will follow with the liveliest interest the subsequent development and economic rapprochement of the two nations."

atory manner, the means of reaching an understanding are surely found. This is the road which the two governments always have followed to the great satisfaction of the two nations."

will be furnished by Hibbard's orchestra. Maxwell Non-Stop Car One of the features at the show is the Maxwell non-stop car which up to last night had been running for 61 days and had covered a mileage of 23,392 miles. The operators of this car are out to establish a record for non-stop runs, it already having broken its own record of 23,044 miles made in California several months ago. The men in charge of the car last night were R. C. Steele and G. T. King, the latter superintendent of the New England Motor Sales of Boston. The car is never left alone, there being three crews each working on an eight-hour shift. The machine was taken back to Boston last night but returned to this city today. The tires that the machine is equipped with at the present time have gone a trifle over 11,000.

Harry Pitts' Exhibit One of the very prominent men at the show is Harry Pitts, the hustling head of the Pitts' Motor Sales and Pitts' Auto Supply. At the further end of the hall is located the exhibit of the auto supply and there can be found a fine line of accessories. James Roland is in charge and with the assistance of Andrew Dowd, Walter Lyons, Richard Bolomby and Miss Margaret Britton is featuring the Steward phonograph made by the manufacturers of the Steward cleaning and polishing automobiles and the Heinze anti-glare device for headlights.

On the automobile end Claude Winters is in charge and he is ably assisted by Cecil Pelton and A. R. Hovey. Three types of the Ford cars are on exhibition, namely, the coupelet, five-passenger touring car and the D. L. Page Co. purchased the truck on exhibition and at the close of the week the machine will be delivered to that company. At the close of the show Mr. and Mrs. Pitts will make a tour of the middle-class visiting many of the automobile factories. Up to date Mr. Pitts has sold 50 Ford cars, his allotment for the season being but 200.

The Davis Exhibit There are two very attractive Davis cars in the center of the floor and R. A. LeFebvre, the agent, assisted by several salesmen, are kept busy explaining the good qualities of the different models. One of the cars is what is known as the "Hummy" roadster. It is a beautiful car with maroon body and has been sold to Anthony J. Gavener of 248 Branch street, this city. The other car is of the sedan type, with royal blue body, seven passenger, two of the seats being concealed when not more than five passengers are in the machine.

The Oldsmobile Joseph McGarry of the Boston Auto Supply Co. has three models of the Oldsmobile, the light eight de luxe. All three are equipped with eight cylinders. One is a sedan with a Springfield top, which allows the taking out of the glass sides. It is of royal blue and has a capacity of five passengers. Another is a cabriolet, and the third is a seven-passenger touring car. The new German silver radiator on this year's models is very neat and attractive. Mr. McGarry is assisted in demonstrating by Fred Boyd, Bert Peterson, John McGarry and Joseph Lanthier.

Lowell Motor Mart The Lowell Motor Mart, Stephen Rochette, proprietor, has three different makes of cars in an attractive corner of the hall, namely, the Dodge, Chandler Light Six and the new Maxwell. There are three of the Dodge cars there, one being a five-passenger touring car, another a five-passenger touring car and the third a Dodge roadster. The famous Chandler Light Six, seven passenger, touring car attracted considerable attention last night. The Maxwell on exhibition is a five passenger touring car equipped with electric lights and self steering. This machine also has the dual system. Charles Hubbard and O. C. Johnson are assisting Mr. Rochette in explaining the good qualities of the different cars. The Lowell Motor Mart also has a fine exhibition of accessories which is in the rear of the hall and in charge of Joseph Schiller.

Studebaker Exhibit The Studebaker exhibit is near the main entrance and there are two beautiful models of this popular car being shown by E. C. Philbrick, the agent. One is a six-cylinder, four-door, H. E. Gamell. One of the cars is a handsome two passenger roadster with graceful lines and chair seats. This is a custom made car. The regular stock car is a seven passenger touring car with royal blue body.

The Paige One of the most attractive cars is the Paige which is located at the entrance to the hall. It is what is known as the Fairchild Six-51 and is a seven passenger car with excellent body being a battle-gray. Wherever there is appreciable luxury and elegance it can be found in this sumptuous car. It is equipped with a six-cylinder Continental motor and the makers claim that it can go 16 miles on one gallon of gasoline. It is also equipped with what is known as self steering. The car is being shown by the agent for the car and he is being ably assisted at the show by James Ranger and Thomas Dean.

The Mitchell A. C. Varnum has two Mitchell cars on exhibition. One is a six-cylinder five passenger junior touring car with a 120 inch wheel base while the other is the regular seven passenger touring car with 127 inch wheel base. This is the machine with the latest 161 adding features, among them being side hander, ventilated doors, primer on dash and electric light in tonneau. Both of these models are very attractive and Mr. Varnum explains the good qualities of the cars in a manner which is easily understood by the public.

Classy Cadillacs When it comes to class you must take off your hats to George R. Dana and G. Russell Dana, Jr., agents for the Cadillac, which is considered the last word in the automobile world. One of the most attractive cars and the most popular car in the show is the five passenger brougham which is upholstered in plush corduroy and the body finished in calumet green. It is a beauty to behold and as the people passed by this car last night you could hear one say "What a beautiful car." "I wish I owned that car" and after looking over the beautiful interior would remark that it was almost too good to sit in. This machine sells for $2210.

Then there is the four passenger roadster with Cadillac blue body and equipped with Cadillac wire wheels. All of these cars are of the eight cylinder type. The sales agent of the New England branch of the Cadillac Co. will be in Lowell during the week.

Lowell Cycle Shop The Lowell Cycle shop has a good exhibit of motorcycles and bicycles. There is the Thor twin cylinder three speed, the Excelsior twin cylinder three speed and the Henderson four cylinder three speed and electrically equipped. Among the bicycle exhibitors are the New England, Columbia, Dayton and Spedwell and New England racer, Melvin Chester, proprietor of the Lowell Cycle shop, is on hand and is ably assisted by A. G. Adams of the Budd high compression rings and T. Jones.

At the exhibit last night was Leon L. Hopkinson of the Firestone Tire Co., who stated that seventy per cent. of the cars in the show were equipped with Firestone tires.

E. E. Smith The E. E. Smith Co. has a good exhibition of Modelloids and greases.

DINNER TENDERED THE LIEUT. GOVERNOR Lieut.-Gov. Calvin Coolidge, who was the guest of honor at the Casino last night, was tendered a dinner at the Harrisonia hotel during the early part of the evening. The lieutenant-governor was accompanied by Lieut. Commander Howard E. Copeland, of the naval brigade, a member of the governor's staff, arrived during the afternoon and was met at the station by Lieut. Winford C. MacBryne, also a member of the governor's staff.

Shortly after 8 o'clock the lieutenant-governor was escorted to the Harrisonia, where was assembled a number of automobile dealers, members of the legal profession and well known citizens. After an informal reception seats were taken at the table and after an excellent menu had been discussed short speeches were made.

Mr. MacBryne introduced Mayor James E. O'Brien as the toastmaster of the evening and the latter, after accepting the honor, spoke in part as follows: "Your Honor, gentlemen of the automobile profession, of the legal profession and the newspapermen, I did not expect to be called upon this eve-

SEARCHLIGHT ON TELEPHONE CO.

Company Acquiesces in Request of Public Service Board

Chairman Asks $25,000 Fund—E. K. Hall Speaks in Favor

BOSTON, Jan. 23.—The house ways and means committee of the Massachusetts legislature had a hearing yesterday afternoon on the recommendation of the public service commission for an appropriation of $25,000 to conduct an inquiry into the affairs of the New England Telephone & Telegraph company.

E. K. Hall, vice president of the Telephone company and Chairman Frederick J. Macleod of the public service commission addressed the committee. Mr. Hall's attitude was that neither he nor the company objected to the inquiry, and although they might not believe it was wholly necessary, they were of the opinion that the commission was the proper body to conduct it.

Mr. Macleod said that the commission is charged by law with the duty of supervising telephones and telegraphs, and it has absolutely no information upon which it may act intelligently. "The policy of supervision," he said, "is a fact and must be accepted as such. That being so, exact information by the commission is essential. We have objected in the past to an investigation resulting through a bill filed in the legislature, but never have we as a result been satisfied by the public service commission, as a result of a request in its annual report."

"Last year we decided at first that we would not oppose the request, which came in that way, but later it became plain that we were in for a hard year and were facing many new problems. As a result we asked that the matter go over for a year, and as it did, we are here now acquiescing in the board's request."

Chairman Macleod said it is purposed to make the inquiry very thorough on the fundamental problems involved. These include, he said, the finances of the company, its capitalization, its methods of doing business and its rates, as well as its relations with other companies, "the Western Electric, for example," he concluded.

"Will the correlation of toll charges to the other features of the business be gone into?" asked Representative Wood.

"That has come up in hearings we have already held," replied Mr. Macleod, "and there is a suspicion that the toll service is not bearing its just proportion of the telephone burden."

Mr. Hall said that there is a public demand that such an inquiry be held, and that the question of rates be passed on by the state.

"Until it is done," he said, "you are going to have bills filed year after year and always a clamor from persons not responsible."

ing to take the place of the promoter of this wonderful exhibition. This show gives quite a flavor to our life. It makes it appear metropolitan. We are on a par with the large cities in the east in the automobile world. The city of Lowell is naturally pleased and proud to have such a large business affair of this kind started here. It shows prosperity and also indicates that it is a good thing to keep business in Lowell. The Lowell automobile dealers every success and hope it will be profitable and also hope that other business will follow the same line and hold shows here."

His Honor then referred to the successful industrial exposition held at the Casino a little over a year ago and the introduction of Calvin Coolidge, lieutenant governor of the state.

as he arose to speak and during the course of his remarks said: "Gentlemen, I am sure that I want to extend to you my sincere thanks for the delightful hospitality that your city has extended to me. I came here to represent the commonwealth in the hall of the Executive, the governor. I want to congratulate you upon your enterprise in taking up and promoting a show of the kind that I am sure awaits us at the Casino. It is something that will advertise the city of Lowell. It is something that the people of your city may well take pride in. I have had the opportunity of coming to your city on a number of occasions and the criticism I think made was that I never stayed long enough. I recall coming here to see your great preparedness parade and saw the wonderful turnout. It was an inspiration to me and an event that I have ever since remembered."

"I have had an interesting experience this evening by sitting beside your mayor and discussing many of the municipal problems, in this city. There is the same condition in every city: that of where shall we get our money? It is only one way to solve it and that is to do all we can to promote and encourage every business enterprise. When you see a man trying to build up the business interests of the city and the nation, and in the process solve the great social and industrial problems that confront us, there has been too much criticism. It is only by increasing our productions and enlarging our resources that we can meet these public demands."

Robert F. Marden, president of the Lowell board of trade, was the next speaker and said: "This show that is going on at the Casino is going to be a wonderful show. It is something we should all be proud of. It is an exhibition that is going to be a winner."

"Owing to the lack of space it is not as large as we would like to have it for many of the dealers would have placed more cars on exhibition. But when we get that new auditorium the show will be on a much larger and grander scale."

Lawrence Cummings was introduced as the last of the newspapermen, and stated that he hoped the show would be a grand success for it meant much towards advertising the city and keeping Lowell in the public eye and keeping business in this city. He also congratulated the board of trade especially for effective work.

At the conclusion of the speech-making Lieut. Gov. Coolidge was escorted to the Casino, where he remained until shortly after 3 o'clock when he returned to Boston.

CALLS WILSON'S SPEECH A "SPLENDID POLICY NOBLY EXPRESSED"

LONDON, Jan. 23.—The Manchester Guardian commenting on President Wilson's speech to the senate, calls it "a splendid policy, nobly expressed."

The Guardian says: "The speech in form was addressed to the senate but it equally concerns ourselves and our adversaries in the war. The president has no intention of taking any part in the actual negotiation of terms of peace. He leaves wholly to the belligerents. He simply comes forward now to state in unmistakable terms, both for his own people and for the other people of the world, everyone of whom is directly concerned, what kind of peace it is which he will consent to call upon his countrymen to approve and sustain."

After quoting the chief points in the president's speech in regard to the conditions on which peace must be based, the Guardian continues: "It is a splendid policy, nobly expressed. How will it be received? By the peoples everywhere we cannot doubt joyfully; by men of good will and enlightenment everywhere not less joyfully and with a clear perception that this is no vision of Utopia but a well thought out and justly framed scheme of man in great position and versed in the affairs of the world. Asking how the belligerents will regard it the paper thinks its principles and phrases will be hardly palatable to autocratic rulers or easily reconciled to their traditions and methods of government."

"But yet, if the people believe in the principles of the president, they will gladly see the government also may find it wise to find in them a path of safety. As for ourselves they are our terms or if they are not, they ought to be and the mass of the nation will do well to see that their rulers render to them every possible favor and support."

Referring to the president's "noble concluding words" the Guardian says: "These are words which will find an echo in many hearts and words are some times deeds."

SUFFERING CATS! GIVE THIS MAN THE GOLD MEDAL

Let folks stop on your feet hereafter; wear shoes a size smaller if you like, for corns will never again drive electric sparks of pain through you, according to this Cincinnati authority.

He says that a few drops of a drug called freecorn, applied directly upon a tender, aching corn, instantly relieves soreness, and soon the entire corn, nail and all, lies right out. This drug is a sticky ether compound, but dries at once and simply shrivels up the corn without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue. It is claimed that a quarter of an ounce of freecorn will cure any corn, no matter how old, and cost very little but sufficient to remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet. Cut this out, especially if you are a woman reader who wears high heels.

BIG AUTOMOBILE SHOW NOW IN FULL SWING AT THE KASINO

The first annual automobile show under the auspices of the Lowell Motor Car Dealers opened last night at the Kasino in Thompson street and hundreds of people flocked to make an inspection of the new models of various makes of cars and also view the beautiful decorations. The latter which were described in yesterday's paper were greatly admired, the interior of the hall being transformed into a palace of beauty. A concert program of rare excellence was carried out by Miner's and Doyle's orchestra.

There were about forty cars of various descriptions on exhibition and salesmen in large numbers were on hand to explain the different points of each car. It did not matter whether a person wanted to buy or not he or she was given the same cordial treatment that a prospective purchaser received.

Last night was governor's night and the guest of honor was Lieut. Gov. Calvin Coolidge. He represented the governor, who was unable to be present owing to a previous engagement. Prior to the lieutenant governor going to the Kasino he was tendered a banquet at the Harrington hotel.

Today's Program

This afternoon the pupils of the high school flocked to the place and taxed the hall to its capacity. Special prizes of $5, $3 and $1 have been offered to the pupil writing the best 200 word description of any car on exhibition at the show.

Tonight will be board of trade night and it is expected that the attendance will be very large. There are special features scheduled for tonight and many of the members of boards of trades of other cities in the vicinity are expected to be on hand. Music

SACO-LOWELL COMP'Y TO BUILD $200,000 PLANT

If the city votes to close Kilton street as a public thoroughfare, a hearing on which is scheduled to be held at city hall on Friday evening, Jan. 25, at 7:30 o'clock, the Saco- Lowell shops expect to erect a new plant, practically a duplication of the present Kilton shop in Dutton street, and of almost similar capacity. The cost will be about $200,000 equipped.

The Saco- Lowell Co. has no definite plans laid at present but the tentative plan calls for a building which will extend a distance of about 25 feet down Dutton street, three or five stories in height and of modern mill construction. It will be connected with the present Kilton plant by an ell. In the courtyard formed by this ell it is planned to build a basement and one-half story building which will be used as a storage plant. If the new mill is erected it will do away with the four or five corporation cottage houses which border the park space in Dutton street, as the new building will extend across the open area. The new mill will offer employment to about 200 more hands and will be given over to the manufacture of cotton and woolen mill machinery. The Kilton plant is now overcrowded and the company needs an imperative need of expansion.

It is believed that the city will act favorably on the petition to close Kilton street and if so it is thought that the Saco- Lowell officials will at once begin to form tangible plans for the new structure.

CITY HALL CHANGES IN FIRE DEPT. REMOVAL MIX-UP TODAY

If the superior court in Boston ruled in favor of the writ of mandamus petitioned for by counsel of Robert J. Thomas, Andrew G. Stiles and Edward H. Foye, who have been removed from the majority of the council from their offices of water superintendent, city treasurer and collector of taxes, respectively, and who are contesting their removal on the grounds of illegal procedure, another legal question may arise as to the payment of any money to the present incumbents of these offices. Of course there is no real head of the water department at present as Robert Gardner, named as Mr. Thomas' successor, has not qualified for the office, but the other two men, Fred H. Bourke and Maxime Lepine are now holding office.

There is no provision made in any of the three charters to restrain the city treasurer from paying over any money to the present incumbents should the court rule that the ousted men shall be recognized as still holding office.

City Solicitor Varnum said this morning that lawyers and judges have always been at odds over this legal point and he was not able to say just what would eventuate.

Commissioner George H. Brown announced this noon that he had made several changes in the fire department.

Capt. Herbert A. Merrill, who has been at the head of Hose 12 in West Sixth street, has been transferred to Truck 3 at the Central fire station to take the place made vacant by the death of the late Capt. F. E. Fuller.

Lieut. Charles E. Abare of Hose 12 has been promoted to the captaincy of the same company to succeed Capt. Merrill.

Alfred P. Prescott, hoseman at Hose 9 in Lincoln street, has been promoted to the rank of lieutenant and will be stationed at Hose 12.

Capt. Richard E. Burns of Hose 5 has been transferred to Engine 6, Capt. David J. Hurley of that company being unable to attend to his duties at the present time.

Martin S. McNally has been transferred from Engine 1 to Hose 9.

John J. Donohoe of Hose 7 goes to Hose 11.

G. S. Mooney has been transferred from Truck 4 to Hose 9.

All of the above changes went into effect today. It was announced that Jerry Shapson, who was recently appointed a regular man and located at the central fire station had failed to pass the doctor's examination and tomorrow will return as a call man attached to Hose 12.

BARUCH READY TO GO ON STAND AT THE LEAK INQUIRY

Searchlights of Committee to be Turned on All "Short" Deals on Exchange From Dec. 10 to Dec. 23 —On Such Speculation, If Any, Profits Were Made on Advance Information, it is Averred—N. Y. Stock Exchange President Testifies

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Searchlights of the house rules committee in the "leak" inquiry are to be turned immediately on all the "short" deals which took place on the stock exchange from Dec. 10 to Dec. 23. It was on such speculation, if any, that profits were made on advance information regarding the president's recent peace note, it is averred.

That this feature of the inquiry may be expedited the committee at its first session today ordered H. G. S. Noble, president of the stock exchange, to "request" the governing board of the exchange to ask its members to supply the committee forthwith with a list of all their transactions between

Dec. 10 and Dec. 23, designating all customers by their real names and not by numbers or appellations. The statements requested also are to show the number of stocks borrowed, by whom and to whom loaned, and the date returned.

With this information in hand, the committee believes it can soon determine if there is any basis to the charges of immense profit-taking through "short" selling on possession of "leak" information.

Noble was the first witness called after Sherman L. Whipple, counsel for the committee, had made his opening statement. It was featured by an outline of the immediate plans of the committee contemplating inquiry into nothing save the "leak" said to have occurred in connection with the president's peace note. Noble was questioned particularly as to the operations of "short" pools and the propriety of speculators accentuating unfavorable news by selling stocks in order to depress the price and "cover" at a profit. He said he saw no impropriety in such operations. He was told that if the records of governors did not obtain the records desired the committee would be compelled to make its own search. Noble agreed to place the matter before the governors this afternoon.

WOULD HAVE EACH SENATOR SPEAK AN HOUR ON PRES. WILSON'S PEACE POLICY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Sen. Cummins of Iowa submitted a resolution to the senate today which would devote the senate beginning next Monday to a full and free discussion of the president's world peace policy expressed in his message yesterday. All other business would be excluded until every senator had an opportunity to speak not more than one hour. Chairman Stone of the foreign relations committee objected to immediate consideration and action was deferred until tomorrow.

The resolution cited that hitherto the president's address called for no official legislative action and that the president had invited free and frank expression of opinion for guidance in a matter involving the integrity of the nation and peace of the world; it was the bounden duty of the senate to thoroughly consider the proposals and to advise the president regarding them.

"In the present pressure of public business," said Senator Stone, "I shall have to object to setting aside a whole week for that which it would take merely to hear speeches or opinions regarding the president's address made yesterday. Such a thing is wholly out of the question at this time."

Senator Cummins insisted that his resolution had a right to be over for a day without reference and said he would object to its going to the committee.

Senator Stone then withdrew his motion and the question will come up tomorrow and probably will precipitate general debate of all the issues involved.

WITHDRAWAL OF U. S. FORCES ORDERED PRES. WILSON'S PLAN HIT BY SEN. JONES

SAYS FREQUENT VISITS TO CAPITAL INDICATED "SYSTEMATIC LOBBYING"

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—President Wilson's plan to visit the capital frequently, urging action on his legislation program was attacked today by Senator Jones, republican, who declared it indicated a course of "systematic lobbying" by the president.

President Wilson now sees no prospect for an extra session of congress. He told callers today that he planned to go to the capital frequently to cooperate with senators and representatives in speeding up legislation.

Senator Jones said he did not wish to introduce any resolution at this time, although he thought the matter should invite the "careful consideration" of the senate. He spoke, he said, "in view of the notice in the newspapers this morning that the chief executive of our country proposed to carry on a systematic and continued system of lobbying in connection with legislation now pending before the senate."

The senator's remarks led to no debate.

AUTO DRIVERS FINED FOR FAST DRIVING AND DRUNKENNESS

There was a variety of cases presented before Judge Enright in police court this morning, the docket being an extra long one. Paul A. Bogossian, through his counsel, entered a plea of not guilty to a complaint charging him with operating an automobile at an unreasonable rate of speed and after the testimony in the case had been heard the defendant was found guilty and ordered to pay a fine of $25.

Thomas H. Chinn, chauffeur, for the United States Chaffage Co., said that at about two o'clock on the morning of December 25th while he was driving an automobile from Maple street into Gorham street, a car operated by Bogossian ran into his machine. Witness said he had a party in his machine who were going around singing Christmas carols. He said that he was traveling about four miles an hour when he turned from Maple street into Gorham street but that the defendant was going at least 55 miles an hour. On cross-examination the witness denied that he had drank anything that night. Two other witnesses who were in the machine at the time of the accident corroborated the testimony offered by the complainant.

Richard Holden, who was also in the automobile operated by Mr. Chinn said that Bogossian gave the wrong registration number of his machine.

No defense was offered and after counsel for the defense made a short

ALLEGED WILSON TRIED TO INFLUENCE JUROR FOR MOBILIZATION OF TROOPS IN CASE OF WAR

SALEM, Jan. 23.—Augustus B. Wilson, one of three defendants on trial in the superior court here charged with illegally keeping liquor in stock with intent to sell, was arrested today on a charge of attempting to improperly influence a juror. Wilson, who owns a drug store here, was held in $3000 bail for a hearing Thursday.

Judge Quinn, who preferred the charge against Wilson after talking with Philip Coleman of Beverly, the juror who is alleged to have been approached, dismissed the jury and continued the case.

ESTABLISHMENT OF LARGE RESERVATION ON GOVERNMENT LAND RECOMMENDED

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—The establishment of large reservations on government lands at intervals along the coasts and borders, for use in the mobilization of troops in case of war was recommended today by Dr. Thomas Darlington, former health commissioner of New York in a report to the National Civic Federation in annual session here. In time of peace, he said, the camps could be used for the training of recruits in military tactics, sanitation and hygiene, and in aviation and automobile engineering.

Dr. Darlington's report was based on his investigation of conditions surrounding the national guardsmen and regulars at the Mexican border. Prominent features of the report are a defense of the personnel of the militia, a plea for universal military service and criticism of unpreparedness and red tape.

CHARTER OF STEAMER AT $100,000 A MONTH

BOSTON, Jan. 23.—The charter of the steamer Newton by the New England Coal & Coke Co. to the France and Canada Steamship Co., at a rate said to approximate $100,000 a month, was announced today. The vessel will be operated as a part of the latter company's fleet between Boston and St. Nazaire, France, in the delivery of steel and munitions to the French government. The first sailing under the new contract, which will run for a year, will be made from this port next month.

GERMAN PEACE TERMS NOT YET RECEIVED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—It was stated officially today that President Wilson has received no word from Germany that she and her allies were willing to lay their terms of peace, even confidentially, before him.

The statement was made in response to recently published intimations that the German terms had already secretly been placed in the president's hands.

A Dramatic Death

Aschylus, an illustrious Greek poet, who lived two thousand, four hundred and thirty years ago, died in a way distinctly his own. He was laid to rest in a magnificent tomb, and on the day of his funeral a turtle in its back flew over him. Wishing to break the turtle's shell and taking Aschylus' head for a rock, the turtle dropped the turtle on the head of the poet, killing him instantly.

Now Aschylus did not misrepresent the turtle. Nor do we make any mistake in the mistake, resulting in the end that it would mean death to our business—as dramatic and sure as that of Aschylus.

POPE ASSISTS IN LOCATING LOST SOLDIERS

ROME, Jan. 23.—Pope Benedict XV., through the department of lost soldiers established at the Vatican, has aided in locating the whereabouts of more than 10,000 lost soldiers about whom heart-broken relatives had inquired through personal appeals to His Holiness. He is receiving, and has received since the war began, some 20 letters a day from distressed parents, wives and sweethearts in all of the belligerent nations, pleading that he use his good offices to learn whether the loved ones, about whom they have been unable to hear anything, are dead, wounded, sick or prisoners.

LOWELL AND LAWRENCE CIGARMAKERS

Both of the contestants are manufacturers and the event will be attended with unusual interest. The match will take place on Les Misérables alleys.

MORE OPPOSITION TO THE LITERACY TEST

About 600 members of the Portuguese fraternity of this city held a mass meeting in Odd Fellows hall last night and voted a strong protest against the literacy test which was recently passed by both branches of Congress.

The meeting was presided over by Manuel C. Pacheco. The outcome of the discussion was the recording of a unanimous vote to do all possible to prevent the signing of the bill and having it become a law.

NEW BRITISH HELMET

The steel helmet which is being manufactured for the British soldiers at the rate of 500 a month is believed by the British authorities to be the best designed and most serviceable headpiece that can be found. Advantage was taken by the designers of the experience gained from the use of the French helmet, or casque, and faults which had developed in the latter were removed.

The British helmet is a round cap of the hardest steel with a narrow "lip" back and front, and designed with a much lower pitch than the French type. It is moreover perfectly smooth, having no flanges or projections for bullets or fragments of shrapnel to strike against, while its low pitch presents the smallest possible target for a direct hit coming from the front. One of the drawbacks of the French helmet, owing to its higher dome, is that the collection of air in the top of the helmet produced an uncomfortable coolness, while at the same time the helmet was such a tight fit that the metal pressed unpleasantly on the head.

These drawbacks have been avoided in the scientifically designed headpiece produced under the supervision of Mr. Lloyd-George, ingenious devices have been employed to secure both a good fit and a comfortable wearing. To avoid any distress to the wearer, inside the dome of the helmet are used a number of rubber strips, so placed as to take up the shock of a blow struck from any direction. They come between the helmet and the double lining of felt and wadding. The wadding comes next to the head, and the rubber strips are placed in the center of the helmet and extend to the sides, so that if a blow should penetrate the steel cap and inflict a scalp wound, the wadding would act as a cushion. The helmet is secured on the head by means of a stout chin strap.

FRANCO-BELGIAN FRONT

APPLETON STREET SEWER

Work on the new Appleton street sewer is progressing faster than was anticipated by the street department and city engineer. The two gangs of men have worked their way beyond Elliot street and are now ripping up the road cover which was laid in 1852. This sewer runs down Appleton street to Elliot and through Elliot to Middlesex street. Work has gone along at a rapid rate so far principally because most of the ledge encountered has been rotten and is easy to drill through.

POSTMASTER FOR NASHUA

It is stated unofficially but on fairly good authority that Henry T. Ledoux, Esq., of Nashua, N. H., will be chosen postmaster of his home city to succeed the late Horace C. Phaneuf, who died recently. Mr. Ledoux is president general of Union St. Jean Baptiste d'Amerique, which counts four courts in this city. J. R. Jacques, Christian Laval and St. Therese, and his many Lowell friends hope the prediction will come true. It is said that Mr. Ledoux is a close friend of Senator Halls and that the latter is doing all in his power in behalf of Mr. Ledoux.

Drunken Driver

Alfred Chaveau pleaded guilty to a complaint charging him with drunkenness and operating an automobile under the influence of liquor.

Sergeant David Petrie said he was standing in Middlesex street yesterday when he saw a machine zig-zagging up the street. He stepped into the middle of the street and held up his hand but Chaveau went right by him. Witness jumped into another automobile and gave chase, catching up to Chaveau in the Middlesex street. He said that he had only recently purchased the machine and was learning how to operate it. He admitted that he had been drinking but only had a little. He was found guilty and ordered to pay a fine of $50.

Statutory Offense

Emile Dumont pleaded guilty to a complaint charging him with a statutory offense and a fine of $10 was imposed.

They Plead Guilty

George E. Wentworth and Emma Caron were also charged with a statutory offense. Each entered a plea of guilty and the man was ordered to pay a fine of $10, while the woman was sentenced to two months in jail.

House of Correction

Charles Botulik and Anna Valok pleaded not guilty to a complaint charging them with lewd and lascivious cohabitation. Inasmuch as practically all of the testimony was given through the medium of an interpreter it necessarily proved to be a long drawn out case. Witnesses offered testimony to the effect that the woman has a husband in Pennsylvania and that several weeks ago she and Botulik left Chicago and came to this city. They were arrested in a house in George street by Lieut. Duncan, and Special Officer Moore. They were both found guilty and each was sentenced to the house of correction for six months.

Put Wife Out of House

According to the testimony offered by Patrolmen Rourke and John H. Clark, Edward Hallowood, who entered a plea of guilty to a complaint charging him with drunkenness, put his wife out of the house at one o'clock this morning. All the woman had on at the time was her night clothes. When the officers entered the house they found a loaded revolver under his pillow and on further search they found 100 cartridges.

Hallowood said that he did not put his wife out of the house, stating that she left of her own accord. When asked what he was doing with the revolver and cartridges he said he had had the revolver for a long time and recently purchased the cartridges for five cents.

"I don't believe that your wife would leave the house in her night clothes on such a cold night as last night and I see no reason why you should have that revolver. Continue this case until Saturday, Mr. Clerk."

Broke Man's Leg

Moise Savignac and another man got into a mixup at the corner of Bridge and French streets last night and as a result the latter sustained a broken leg and was taken to St. John's hospital. Savignac was arrested and held in the house of correction until he was that of drunkenness inasmuch as the injured man said that he did not want to appear in court. Judge Enright notified Lieut. Duncan to investigate the whole matter and report in court tomorrow. Savignac was held under bonds for his appearance at that time.

Other Offenders

Philip Novel pleaded guilty to being drunk and when he said he would like to go to the state farm his request was granted. Frank Vitro was sentenced to 20 days in jail and Frances M. Sullivan received a sentence of 30 days in the same institution. Michael Cluin was fined $5.

Charles E. Daniels who walked into the police station last night and wanted to be locked up for the night, said he came down from Rochester, N. H., last Thursday and had been living in Middlesex street since that time. He was given three weeks to pay a fine of $5.

Loring Elliott was ordered to pay a fine of $5. Henry J. Jones' wife complained that her husband abused her, gave her no money and was a heavy drinker. The case was continued until tomorrow morning.

Assault and Battery

Joseph Milner pleaded guilty to drunkenness and assault and battery on Harold H. Verge. According to the testimony offered, Verge, who is 35 years of age, was driving a wood wagon on Fayette street yesterday when Milner jumped on the back of the wagon, struck Verge with the handle of the wheel and struck him again. Patrolman William H. Wilson saw part of the assault and arrested Milner. The defendant was found guilty and ordered to pay a fine of $20.

Charged With Larceny

John Trudell pleaded guilty to the larceny of $28.96 in money from Fairbanks market. The defendant had been employed at the market, but owing to extenuating circumstances Mr. Fairbanks had let him go without a check. Trudell took in his employ on condition that the former make restitution. Trudell agreed to pay $5 a week and on that condition the defendant was placed on probation.

Stubborn Child

Patrick P. Monahan pleaded guilty to being a stubborn child. His mother said she had done everything possible to make him lead a better life, but was unsuccessful. She said that the day before yesterday he stole $2.00 in money from her. The court sentenced him to Shirley, from which he appealed.

ANYBODY CAN MAKE FIRELESS COOKER

Any clever housewife, if she chooses, can make a fireless cooker for herself. So says the United States department of agriculture which in a little booklet, to be published, will tell her just how to go about it. The materials required are of the simplest and cost next to nothing. To start with, she may take a suitable wooden box, but an old trunk will serve, or a large butter or lard can, or a galvanized iron bucket with close-fitting cover. Suppose that she uses a box. It should have the bottom with a raised cover, with a hook and staple at the front to hold the cover down. The box is called the "outside container". There must be an "inside container" which may be a cylinder of stout portland cement, set on end to hold the kettle in which the food is cooked. And all the space between this cylinder and the sides of the wooden box must be tightly rammed with some insulating material, such as excelsior or old newspapers.

This packing must rise to a level with the top of the cylinder. This (the top, that is) should be four inches lower than the lid of the box. Room is thus left for a pastebord cylinder in which the cooking-kettle fits, and which should be made to fill the space completely.

That is all there is of the home-made fireless cooker—a box filled nearly to its top with packing that furnishes a nest for a pastebord cylinder in which the cooking-kettle fits, and provided with a cushion-pad to fill it completely before the lid is shut down and hooked fast.

Suppose the housewife has a stew to prepare for the evening meal. At breakfast time she heats it in the kitchen range until it has begun to cook. Then she takes it off, pours it into the kettle, and puts the latter into the pastebord cylinder. On the top of the kettle she places the cushion-pad; the box is shut and fastened, and the stew goes ahead cooking itself until supper time, when it is ready to serve, piping hot.

She may, if she likes, buy a kettle made especially for this purpose, with two compartments, so that more than one dish—say, meat and a vegetable—can be cooked in it simultaneously. Six quarts is a convenient size, but the kettle should be at least 2 1/2 gallons in capacity. It should be made of rusted by moisture inside the box.

The principle of the fireless cooker, of course, is very simple. It is merely that of a tight receptacle in which the food, already heated, is surrounded by an insulating substance which constrains the escape of heat, so that enough of the latter is retained to complete the cooking.

The culinary possibilities of such a contrivance are considerably expanded if a hot brick or hot stones are placed beneath the kettle in the cylinder, before the box is closed. This may have an additional source of heat may be provided, making the temperature inside the box much higher.

But when such an expedient is employed, the box can avoid danger of fire must be lined with insulating material. The inside container, and the packing must be of the same material, and the packing must be of a kind that will not catch fire.

In such case a galvanized-iron box, or of cylindrical shape may be used for the inside container. Its cost is less than what a tinmouth would charge for making a similar metal cylinder. But the latter must be down enough to hold the kettle and hot brick or stones, and stand at the bottom of the box.

The best insulating stuff for a fireless cooker is natural wool. But chicken gizzards, the purpose about as well, and are equally successful in cheap, unadorned paper. It is also satisfactory. It is clean, odorless and holds the heat well. The packing should be done by ramming down handfuls of a newspaper between the hands.

When the layer of such packing four inches deep has been laid over the bottom of the box (padding it down hard with a heavy blunt of wood), the pastebord cylinder should be stood or end in the middle of it, and then more crumpled papers rammed around it as solidly as possible.

The fireless cooker saves fuel. Also it saves time, because foods cooked in it do not require watching, and may be left to themselves while the cook is occupied with other duties or the family is away from home, without danger of overcooking. Its contents should remain undisturbed at least six or eight hours, or overnight, though less time is required if a hot stove lid or brick is employed.

It may enable a family to enjoy hot soup, instead of having to eat cold food. With a fireless cooker cheaper cuts of meat may be utilized, because long cooking at a low temperature improves the flavor of such cuts and makes them tender.

The contrivance is best adapted to foods which require boiling, steam-

Fireless cooking is no new idea. In parts of Europe the peasants since very early times have made a practice of starting their dinners on the stove, and then putting the food into hay-sewed (for an insulating material) over hot stones on which the edibles were placed—the very method used nowadays at chalmers, which is fireless cooking on a large open-air scale.

TED CANN ONE OF BEST SHORT DISTANCE SWIMMERS IN COUNTRY

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Eastern aquatic experts declare that Ted Cann, the crack New York A.C. expert, is now the greatest swimmer in the country, bar none. Ted has defeated every man of note within the last six months, among them Kahanamoku, Volmer and several other stars. The Wing Foot boys hopes to snatch a record from Cann in the 100 yard dash and outdoor before the 1917 season is over, and the experts are of the opinion he will do it. Photo shows Ted Cann ready to start in one of his recent races.

BABE' CHRISTO LOSES, TO BILLY CARNEY

"Babe" Christo of this city took a whipping last night at the hands of Billy Carney of New Bedford in the latter city and was knocked out in the fourth round. Christo attributed his defeat to the fact that he was not in the best of health. He was carried to the hospital and is now recovering. Christo was a long time in the ring and was carried to the hospital and is now recovering. Christo was a long time in the ring and was carried to the hospital and is now recovering.

BROWNS OF 1885 SOME
BASEBALL TEAM

AT LEAST PHILON THINKS SO—
BUT THERE ARE ALSO OTHERS
IN THE FIELD

William A. Phelon has a most interesting story in the February issue of the Baseball magazine. He tells of the St. Louis Browns of 1885. Phelon calls them the best team ever put together and that if they were alive today and played in the present day ball park, they would run up over the Boston Red Sox, while the Boston Red Sox would be a mere nothing. Phelon adds, "Maybe I'm wrong, but so it seems to me."

There are lots of men who will differ with the St. Louis Browns of 1885. But Phelon is a man who will be strong in his assertions and beliefs. The Browns of 1885 were constituted as follows: Catchers, Boyle, Basham and Miligan; pitchers, King, Evelyn, Hudson, Foutz, Chambers, Chamberlain, Muldrew, Conners, Robinson, Latham, Cleveland, outfielders, O'Neill, Welch and McCarthy.

Many of these names have come down through the years as masters of the great national pastime and have linked themselves with the names of the more recent and modern stars. It was a great team, these Browns of 1885, and it is impossible to tell just how they would match up against the crack clubs of the present day.

I heard a baseball fan, a man who has followed the game like a hawk these past few years, say that long ago that in his opinion the Boston Red Sox under Carson during the years of 1914 and 1916 were never equalled. Now this man is no such an ardent admirer of the Red Sox as to let enthusiasm run away with his better judgment. In fact this man better hard for other teams to beat out the Red Sox of the 1914-1916 team when the club of the American League from Boston whittled through the west in their last season, and the crowd in the twilight of last season and overcame the bitterest opposition ever offered a major league club, to eventually land at the top of the heap. This man took it as his lot to be a fan of the American League from Boston whittled through the west in their last season, and the crowd in the twilight of last season and overcame the bitterest opposition ever offered a major league club, to eventually land at the top of the heap.

As has been previously said, there will never be any way to decide as to which was the better ball club, the Browns of '85 or the Red Sox of 1914-1916. It is a matter of opinion and a manager's opinion will be pretty equally divided.

A reputable sporting writer at the close of the 1916 season and after the All-American baseball team and one or two members of the Red Sox were given place on this national team. A discussion arose shortly after the team was published as to whether the team should be made up of players, could make the Boston American club of 1916 have in submission in a series of say five or six games. Would the smug, smiling, attack of a team which sported the names of Cobb, Jackson, Speaker, Hal Chase and others wear down the wonderful defense which has been the backbone of the Red Sox these past two years? Could Alexander, Johnson or Mainau stop the Red Sox from getting that winning run across?

Getting the winning run across. Therein lies the secret of the success of the club of Carney. They would after that run both and meet. The silent leader from Lewiston used every bit of science and strategy known to the game and more than once used every available player on the Red Sox bench to get that one run. But nine times out of ten he got it. Did it take nerve to send up Del Gainer to hit for Larry Gardner in one of the world series games? Did Gardner, the man who was driving 'em out for an average of better than 30.0, sulk because a utility man was sent up in a pinch? He couldn't have or else Carney's system would have been shot full of a thousand holes. The Red Sox as they stood in 1916 were a ball team in every sense and interpretation of the word. They were not a dozen or more individual players, they were a ball team, a unit, working together in perfect harmony and accord.

To come back to the all-star team vs. the Red Sox. Alexander didn't stop Boston in 1915 and Johnson had only mediocre success against the world champions during the 1916 season. Cobb, Jackson et al. would get him off both Lewis and Saoré of course, but would they score a sufficient number of times to win? If such a series was to be arranged next week we know of a few odd dollars that would go down on the American league champions.

FOR LONGER BOUTS WITH DECISION IN NEW YORK

TALK OF INTRODUCING BILL IN LEGISLATURE CAUSES COM-MENT

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—There is talk of introducing a bill at Albany to increase the length of bouts in this state from ten to twenty rounds, with a referee's decision, and just to make life a merry one for the legislators who would do away with bob-tailed bouts, the New York Civic League is to introduce a counter bill asking for the repeal of the law.

An attempt to increase the length of bouts will be sure to attract the foes of boxing in this state, and they would be sure to rally to the support of any bill intended to sound the death knell of the manly art of self-defense. Boxing has prospered since the making of the law now in vogue. There have been a few unsatisfactory contests, especially where great purses have been guaranteed, but in the main the poor bouts have been snowed under by fistic struggles that were well worth while.

Time and again it has been suggested that referees' decisions be allowed, but the plan has always failed through simply because it was thought best to let well enough alone. There has been an endless argument for and against the idea, and if the bill to increase contests to twenty rounds and a decision is actually introduced at Albany tongues will wag all the livelier.

Willie Lewis is in receipt of a letter from Vienna, the French boxing promoter, stating that Emil Matrot, one of the greatest figures in French boxing circles, has been killed at the front. Matrot was widely known as a promoter and club owner. At one time he conducted two arenas. He arranged the middleweight bout between Frank Klaus and Georges Carpentier, staged it in his own club and prevented Desamps, Carpentier's manager, from hoodwinking the referee when Klaus sent the French idol to the floor for a knockout in the eleventh round. Desamps was trying to extort Carpentier to claim foul, but Matrot balked the scheme by getting into the ring and insisting that the referee rightfully award Klaus the victory. In speaking of Matrot last night, George Engle said:

"Matrot was one of the finest athletes in France. He was powerfully and wonderfully built, and his strength was tremendous. I've seen him tear up decks of playing cards into bits with as much ease as an ordinary person would break a soda cracker. He was a handsome fellow and a great favorite with the French people."

"Matrot began as a physical culture instructor and then became closely identified with the French Federation of Boxing. He was always for clean boxing, and though he was warmly attached to Carpentier, he came to me before I sent Klaus into the ring and told me that I would get a square deal. He kept his word."

"When the war broke out Matrot joined the colors and won honors for his bravery while acting as a despatch bearer. He was always a great favorite with the French people, and he was killed, for he was the best friend that boxing ever had in Europe."

Bob McAllister, the California mid-dleweight, will get the first crack at Mick King, the latest boxer to arrive from Australia. McAllister was scheduled to fight immediately after McAllister's bout with Roddy McDonald at the Broadway Sporting club Saturday night.

William Miske who appears to be the most formidable middleweight developed in a number of years, takes a position to the statement that he is a pupil of Mike Gibbons and that all the skill he possesses is due to instruction received from the St. Paul phantom.

"I had the gloves on with Mike just twice, and each time he tried to knock me out, but failed. I did considerable boxing with Tom Gibbons, but he couldn't teach me anything about the science of the game. As a matter of fact, I picked it up myself, and whatever ability I have is due solely to my own efforts. I was a natural fighter, and I have always hit hard, with or without gloves."

"I began boxing three years ago as a professional and have been busy ever since. I am 23 years of age and as I am six feet tall I expect to put

ATTEMPT TO STIR INDIAN EMPIRE TO REVOLT

"SIMLA, India, Jan. 23.—From a time early in the war right up to the present moment Germany has never ceased attempts to stir the Indian empire to revolt, according to Sir Charles Cleveland, director of criminal intelligence in this country, who made this statement to a correspondent of The Associated Press. Sir Charles characterized the plots as "delusory, belated, too theoretical, and based on a misunderstanding of Indian character," and declared that the scheme failed chiefly because of "the sanity of the great Indian public which has withheld its support."

Sir Charles is reputed to know more about those in whom the secret service naturally would be interested than any other man in India. For years he has made a study of that class which favors the darkness of night for its comings and its goings, and now as head of the secret service, the government relies upon him to check untoward occurrences in any section before they have grown into a serious menace.

"There has been some trouble in India," said Sir Charles, "but it is a very far short of the picture drawn in enemy publications and of the enemy's desire. The state of India all through the war seems to have exposed a very big miscalculation on the part of the Germans. It is not so much the Indian public as the Indian government which has been misled."

How far this miscalculation was due to a misunderstanding of normal Indian affairs and how far to a misreading of plans for causing trouble in India and among Indians outside India during the war, Sir Charles does not say. His own impression is that Germany thought India would need very little extraneous prompting and assistance to rise against the British if the latter were in serious embarrassment owing to a big continental war, and that there, for not very much attention was paid by the German government to investigation in India before the war. Where and how did the German government get that idea? Was it conveyed to them by secret unknown agents or by some over confident Indian extremist or by British panic-mongers? It is difficult to say for certain, but I remember that some years ago an Indian extremist leader used the following words to me:

"We shall certainly try to embarrass you actively in India if you have a war with a continental power or with Afghanistan. Our feelings are firm on that point unless indeed, self-interest of some special reason dictates a passive attitude to some or all of us. But never again will you find such positive assistance as we gave you at the time of the Boer war."

"My extremist friends were not to be counted on to the Indian army. At the time I thought my friend's attitude was pathetic in its self-delusion and time has shown that I was right."

"After the war broke out, the German government showed a willingness to spend money lavishly on Indian trouble, but there was no sign of financial help of troublesome schemes or individuals before the war. In 1915 and 1916 a German viewing the situation in India with patriotic anti-British eyes would have observed the following phenomena: A rapprochement between a section of Indian Mohammedans and the Young-Turk party in Europe; an anarchical revolutionary movement in Bengal with some ramifications in the north of India; latent movement of extreme nationalism in the Bombay presidency and some other places; an unrestrained "Ghadr" movement among Indians in the United States and Canada; and a certain amount of Moslem dissatisfaction in the north of India and along the northwest frontier. I think it was beyond the power of any German to decide whether these phenomena were the signs of a deep and widespread unrest or merely local surface disturbances or merely the result of the order to interpret to the Germans consulted exiled and partisan Indians who were out of touch with India as a whole and who therefore magnified their own views and feelings and those of their friends and associates out of all reasonable proportion."

"For the first few months of the war the Germans waited for the Indian storm to come of itself as they had been led to believe that it would come. To begin with, our enemies based extravagant hopes on Turkey's intervention, but the Indian Mohammedans as a whole took this with extraordinary calm and resignation. Then came the "Ghadr" invasion of the United States, Canada and the far east, but that broke itself hopelessly on the good sense and feeling of the Punjab public and on the resourceful administration of that province."

"Disappointed by these failures of the Indian trouble to arrive automatically, the Germans realized that they must attempt direct assistance and turned their attention to the Bengal revolutionary party. After six months or so of the war the Germans had established a regular bureau of disaffected Indians in Germany itself, among whom were included some leading members of most of the disaffected movements already mentioned. Under their advice grandiose schemes were evolved for the supply of arms, ammunition, money and even German soldiers and sailors to the revolutionaries in Bengal and to the disaffected Moslem fanatics in the north of India. The schemes all miscarried hopelessly; remittances had a way of getting intercepted by the wrong people. Ships on secret German errands kept knocking up against the allied warships, and last, but perhaps not least, most of the moves in the plots were promptly reported to us all along by our own agents. These plots are still continuing but there is little sting in them and I am afraid the Germans themselves do not believe in them very strongly."

"I should like to be able to say that the frustration of the plots has been due to the Indian police and to the branch of that service under me but I gladly admit that it has been due to the sanity of the great Indian public which has withheld its support. Plots and conspiracies are very severely handicapped when the public environment is apathetic or hostile to the conspirator. At the moment the secret service are feeling very comfortable but professionally we are disappointed with the German plots for India. We had hoped to learn a great deal from their system and methods but they seem to us to have been clumsy, belated, too theoretical and based on a misunderstanding of Indian character. At the same time I believe the British empire owes a great debt to the Indian police in all its branches for its unswerving loyalty and zeal during the great war."

GIRL SEES HER MOTHER DASHED TO DEATH

WOMAN KILLED AND THREE PERSONS PROBABLY FATALITY INJURED AS FREIGHT HITS JETNEY

PAWTUCKET, R.I., Jan. 23.—A mother was dashed to death before the eyes of her 5-year-old daughter, and three other persons were injured, perhaps fatally, last night, when a fast freight crashed into a jetney bus at the Broadway crossing here of the India Point branch of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad.

Mrs. Annie McGarry, 30, wife of Herbert McGarry of Turner street, South Attleboro, is dead.

The injured are: Edward Smith, 30, street, Attleboro, internal injuries.

Mrs. Della Smith, wife of Edward Smith, internal injuries and possibly fractured skull.

Ronald Davignon, 175 Japonica street, internal injuries.

Dorothy McGarry, 3, daughter of Mrs. McGarry, cuts and bruises, but not seriously hurt.

The jetney was smashed to kindling by the force of the impact, its occupants being hurled in every direction—all save the child, whose life was saved by a strange freak of fate.

In some manner the girl's dress became caught on the cow-catcher of the engine and when the train was finally brought to a stop, 500 yards from the scene of the accident, at the John street crossing, she was found unconscious on the ground. Her body was taken to the hospital over the edge, the dress trailing on the track, but aside from several cuts and bruises and the loss of three teeth, which had been knocked out, the child was unhurt.

The child's mother was found several hundred yards from the crossing and died while she was being carried to an ambulance. The other occupants of the jetney were found close by and taken to the Memorial hospital.

In many ways the accident was similar to the one in Harvard, Mass., Sunday, where four members of one family were killed when an automobile in which they were riding was struck by a Boston & Maine engine.

Three or four days ago the gates at the Broadway crossing were smashed by a motorist who drove through them and they had not been in operation since. Last night, as Davignon, with his four passengers, came down Broadway driving in the direction of Attleboro, the driver, seeing a danger signal at the crossing and any danger signal at the crossing and did not slacken the speed of his machine.

A moment later William Bowes, the crossing tender, who heard the freight approaching, ran into the middle of the street to give warning. It was too late. Before Davignon could throw in his breaks the engine struck the jetney, crushing it like so much cardboard.

Patrolmen Hunter and Eldridge, who were standing a few feet away, hastened to the scene and with the driver's crew picked up the victims.

An investigation of the accident will be made today.

EXPLOSION ON SHIPS MANY KILLED

DOMINICAN COURT STEAMER CARIB COMPLETELY WRECKED

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic, Jan. 23.—Many persons on board the Dominican court steamer Carib were killed and others severely injured by the explosion of the steamer's boiler, which completely wrecked the vessel.

A moment later William Bowes, the crossing tender, who heard the freight approaching, ran into the middle of the street to give warning. It was too late. Before Davignon could throw in his breaks the engine struck the jetney, crushing it like so much cardboard.

Patrolmen Hunter and Eldridge, who were standing a few feet away, hastened to the scene and with the driver's crew picked up the victims.

An investigation of the accident will be made today.

WILSON'S PLAN FOR WORLD PEACE

President Wilson in his address to the United States senate on the settlement of the war and a plan for world peace has actually startled the civilized world. In going before the senate he broke all precedents since the days of Thomas Jefferson, and in his declaration for a concert of powers to enforce universal peace after the war, he outlined a new policy for the United States, one that would be perhaps the very opposite of what Washington and Jefferson laid down as a line of safety in avoiding entangling alliances with foreign nations. But should President Wilson's plan prevail the whole world would be changed, wars and the national jealousies that lead to them would close and hence such foreign alliances would have lost their terrors.

But President Wilson gave good reasons for his departure. As the head of the greatest neutral nation, he felt that it was proper for him to lay down the terms of peace in which this country could conscientiously join. He pointed out that while both sides in the war desire peace their aims and terms are irreconcilable. He feels that a peace resulting from a complete victory on one side would not be lasting and he, therefore, suggested a plan under which the war should be terminated on principles of justice and right and under which the power of government should be based upon the consent of the governed. This means that such nations as Belgium, Rumania, Montenegro, Serbia and Ireland should enjoy their freedom. He specified Poland in particular as an example of a nation whose racial individuality should be preserved.

He rather deprecated the idea put forth in the terms of the Allies providing for reparation, restoration and future guarantees. He favored the plan of allowing every power to have access to the seas for commercial purposes which means that the Dardanelles should be opened to Russia and Bulgaria without driving Turkey from Europe; and he would extend the Monroe Doctrine to the entire world so as to forbid any one nation to invade or subjugate another. This is the most radical step of all.

To carry out these ends it would be necessary for the great powers of the world to unite in a pact of universal peace to be enforced by their combined armies and navies, although at the same time he advocated a reduction in armament to the extent that this plan might permit.

It is natural that a speech of such momentous import should be viewed in different lights by the statesmen of the country. Some senators pronounced it the greatest utterance since the Declaration of Independence, while others shook their heads and were non-committal. It is very evident that the plan will meet with opposition even in the senate, but in spite of this fact the speech is pregnant with vast possibilities for good; and it may even be instrumental in hastening the end of the terrible conflict that now afflicts not only Europe but the entire world. To see any such plan as outlined by President Wilson adopted would certainly indicate that we had reached the dawn of the millennium. We fear this world compelled peace so eloquently portrayed by President Wilson is beyond the most sanguine hope of realization. If so the blame cannot be laid at his door. He has done his duty in the name of justice, liberty and humanity.

HIGH SCHOOL CHANGES

While there is wide discussion over the construction of our new high school, very little is heard of the educational necessities that must be met by the new building.

At the present time there is a movement among the leading educators of the country in favor of dividing up the high school work so that there will be a junior high school to combine the two upper grades of the grammar school with the lowest class of the present high school and then cut the high school course from four to three years.

This change has been discussed in educational journals for over a year and at a conference of school superintendents, school principals and teachers with the faculty of the College of Liberal Arts at Boston University, Saturday, the idea was unanimously favored.

It is the next step onward in educational progress and it is one that may have to be provided for in this city in the very near future. The idea is that the change from the grammar school to the high is too sudden and that the junior high school would offer the easy transition that would bring better results. According to this proposition, the pupil would have six years in the grammar school, three in the junior high and three in the high. The arrangement, it would seem, would meet the requirements of the great majority of pupils much better than the present plan in which nine years are required to get through the grammar grades and four, or sometimes five, through the high school. The city of Lawrence finishes its school courses in a year less than we do and nobody hears any complaint over the results in that city.

It might be well, therefore, for our school officials to take this movement into consideration and determine whether we want two high school buildings instead of one, or whether any modification should be made in the plans in order to provide facilities for the change, should it come, as it will undoubtedly in a few years, perhaps before we shall have completed the new high school, which as contemplated is to be an extension of the old high school. We should take care to build for the educational needs of the future. What those needs will be for the next generation our educators should be best able to determine.

THE GRAYSON AFFAIR

Some opposition has been raised to the confirmation of Dr. Cary T. Grayson, a lieutenant in the medical corps who has been named for a medical director with the rank of rear admiral. This promotion is not regular. Dr. Grayson may be a splendid man, but the fact that he was physician to the president has given rise to the assumption that the appointment is due to favoritism rather than merit.

Promotion either in the army or the navy that is not based upon merit is unwarranted and damaging to the service. We have seen the effects in England where the sons of the aristocracy were placed in command. The army made no satisfactory progress until these feather bed generals were killed or weeded out. The real fighters have been advanced to positions of command and England is not likely hereafter to repeat the mistake. The military men of prowess are now the aristocracy. We have no aristocracy here and, so far as practicable, merit should rule where efficiency is the great aim, as it should be in every department.

THE MILITARIST TENDENCY

It seems that our legislators are giving a great deal more attention to the matter of military preparedness than to our industrial progress or our preparedness to meet the situations that will confront us some time after the close of the European war.

Every military man of prominence has tried to work out a plan for military service by all the young men of the nation so that we may have a permanent military system on a plan somewhat similar to that of the most militant powers on the globe. If the war terminates with a peace that will endure, our preparedness for war will be unnecessary, but so long as we have an army and navy of fighting strength, if we elect a president of fighting tendencies, such for example as Col. Roosevelt, we may find it difficult to keep out of war. It is to be hoped that our highest preparedness will be for the arts of peace rather than war. We are moving towards militarism with as much determination as if we were to engage in a world war after the present struggle shall have ceased.

AGAINST THE THREE DECKER

Boston has started a crusade against the wooden three-decker as a fire hazard that must be eliminated. It is proposed to extend the fire district, or as they term it in Boston, "the building limit," to include the entire city as a means of stopping the construction of this type of building. The insurance rates are higher in the districts where these buildings prevail than elsewhere; and it is alleged that greedy contractors put up these buildings in the flimsiest way and sell them while new so as to get rid of them before the defects in construction begin to appear.

Boston is right in putting a stop to the multiplication of such buildings. We might well follow Boston's example in putting some proper restriction upon the crowding of big tenement blocks so close together that in case of fire they would furnish ready provender for a conflagration.

PRIVATE SESSIONS

The aldermen of Somerville have voted to exclude the public from their discussions of proposed legislation. That will prevent a lot of gallery plays, of course, but it is not in line with the prevailing method in other cities under which every alderman makes a speech declaring his devotion to the people and making that the sole criterion of every measure, although in many cases what is claimed to be done in behalf of the people, is diametrically opposed to their interests.

Seen and Heard

The traffic cop comes in time to have a very poor opinion of pedestrians.

Have you ever succeeded in thinking out a profitable way to occupy your time while you are standing on the street corner waiting for a car?

A Pittsfield woman made a purchase and the clerk put it up. All the way down the street she noticed that she didn't move easily. The package under her arm kept slipping. Finally, she glanced behind, and, to her astonishment, observed that the clerk in tying up the package had failed to break the string.

Everybody Satisfied

Ice, a winter commodity, is what boys and girls like for skating on. Ice men need it to store up against the day of filling family ice chests, and others of the fishing fraternity want it so they can cut holes in it and pull out pickers through the holes. Any thickness of ice so long as it is smooth and will hold them, pleases youth, the ice man wants it about 10 or 12 inches thick and clear, and the fishermen would prefer to cut not more than five or six inches. No wonder the weather man has a hard job trying to satisfy all these desires, but it looks so far this season as though quite general satisfaction had been given.

The City

They do neither plight nor wed in the city of the dead. In the city where they sleep away the hours. But they lie, while over them rains Winter-bright and summer change. And a hundred happy whisperings of flowers. No, they neither wed nor plight. And the day is like the night. For the vision is of other kind than ours.

They do neither sing nor sigh, in that burgh of be and by. Where the streets have grasses growing cool and long. But they rest within their bed, leaving all their thoughts unsaid. Deeming silence better far than sob or song. No, they neither sigh nor sing. Though the robin be a-singing. Though the leaves of autumn march a million strong.

There is only rest and peace in the city of the dead. From the failings and the wailings 'neath the sun. And the wings of the swift years beat but gently over the dead. Making music to the sleepers every one.

There is only peace and rest; But to dream it is death's best. For they lie at ease and know that life is done.

—Richard Francis Burton.

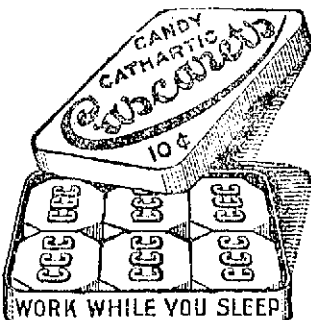

The Ways of a Pup

The pup had his own notions about what he'd like to do and wouldn't always be ready to come when called. So when the man whose name adorns the dog's collar, shouted loudly several "come-ers" the pup let one of his notions take him off to where some small boys were skating. It was a time when discipline should be called into play. Out of weeks of training the pup really did know what the "down" meant. The boys should be taught that they

FAMILY DOCTOR'S GOOD ADVICE

To Go On Taking "Fruit-a-lives"
Because They Did Her Good

Rochester, Jan. 14th, 1915.

"I suffered for many years with terrible indigestion and constipation. I had frequent dizzy spells and became greatly run down. A neighbor advised me to try 'Fruit-a-lives'. I did so and to the surprise of my doctor, I began to improve, and he advised me to go on with 'Fruit-a-lives'."

I consider that I owe my life to 'Fruit-a-lives' and I want to say to those who suffer from indigestion, constipation or headaches—'try Fruit-a-lives' and you will get well'. CORINE GAUDREAU.

couldn't play with every dog that came their way.

"Lie down!" commanded the owner. The pup just wriggled, jumped and backed, and one of the boys reached out his hand tentatively for the dog to jump at and kept saying "Nice doggie." More commands filled of response, and the owner, mad clear through, started to walk off, believing the pup would surely follow. But the pup was having too good a time with the boys.

Half way home the owner heard a commotion behind him caused by a small boy and the pup. "Here's your dog, mister," said the lad. "I guess he's sorry he done it." But the dog wasn't sorry—only artful. It was a long time before the owner tried any more discipline where there were on-lookers.

The Old and the New

The old year is gone. We have said farewell to 1916. It is gone and forgotten.

Most old things are forgotten, for our hands are always outstretched to the new. Forget 1916 and welcome 1917. Close the door on the one and open it to the other.

Yet memory treasures the past. The old things of the old days of the simple life now and then recur and awaken our sweetest emotions.

The old school house, the old farm, the old apple tree in the orchard, the old well with its refreshing water, the homely old fashioned, simple meals and the old strength, health and vigor of the days of plain living—how dear the recollections of childhood!

The busy man in the great, congested city, perplexed by a multitude of cares, confronted daily by new problems, adding to his burdens, heaping up responsibilities while heaping up treasure, in a restless moment longs for the peace of the past.

In his reverie he hears again the tolling of the little bell that called him on Sunday mornings to the steeple-crowned church spire on the hilltop in the village of his birth.

In the flush of success, in the mad rush for the new and the eager haste to discard and forget the old, let us spare a contemplative moment now and then to revel in the joys of the early days when ambition wrought its dreams of a golden future but left unrevealed the sacrifices, the cares and heavy burdens that success involves.

the life and energies of city people, namely, stomach and nervous disorders. Many men and women who have suffered from stomach, liver and kidney trouble are now enjoying perfect health due to Plant Juice, as their numerous testimonials show.

In a recent interview, Mr. Hugh MacLean, of No. 41 Fourth Street, who is employed in one of the largest mills in the country, tells how he was relieved of a bad case of stomach trouble by Plant Juice. "I have been troubled more or less for the past 15 years with my stomach and my food fermented and caused gas to form. I was badly affected and in constant misery. I never could eat any breakfast and was so nervous that I could not sleep at night. I had terrible pains around my heart, caused from the gas, had headaches, was constipated and had pains all over my body. A friend who had been cured by Plant Juice, begged me to try it. After I had taken it for 2 weeks, I can now eat anything I want. I sleep well, my bowels are regular, and I feel stronger and more lively than I have for months. I can't praise Plant Juice too highly for making it possible for me to now eat and digest my meals, and am glad to give this endorsement for it."

The Plant Juice Man is at home, The Druggists, in Merrimack Square, where he is daily meeting the local public and instructing and explaining the merits of this remedy.

ADMIRAL BENSON NOW NAVY'S RANKING OFFICER

By the death of Admiral Dewey Rear Admiral William S. Benson became the ranking officer of the navy and probably will be designated to succeed Admiral Dewey as president of the general board, retaining also his duties as chief of naval operations.

ADMIRAL WILLIAM S. BENSON

Captain Benson was born in Georgia on Sept. 23, 1855, and entered the Naval academy in 1872. He was graduated from the academy in 1877 and during a sea service that time of twenty-two years has cruised practically all over the world. On one cruise he circumnavigated the entire coast of Africa. In 1882 he was a member of the Greely relief expedition.

BRUSHING THE TEETH

Do you brush your teeth right? It is of the utmost importance to brush the teeth properly. When the teeth decay on one side more than the other you will often find it due to the incorrect method of using the brush. You must likely apply the dentifrice to the brush and with the right hand use it first on the left side. The right gets only what is left.

Learn to use both hands and cleanse and, if possible, after each meal. It is one side as carefully as the other, especially important, however, to remove all decaying particles before going to sleep lest they cause poison between the teeth once or twice a day. This is not only good for the teeth but also helps to keep the breath sweet.

A list of diseases which may be traced to decayed teeth is alarming. It includes rheumatism, carbuncles and boils, anemia, tonsillitis and glandular swellings, neuralgia and toxic neuritis, diphtheria, gastritis, appendicitis, pleurisy, nephritis, laryngitis, flatulency, and must be chewed. Soft food is easier to digest.

SLEEPYTIME TALES

THE BOY FIRE COMPANY

Once upon a time Godfrey had been given a birthday present of a fire hook and ladder toy wagon. It was large enough for three boys to ride in and was painted a bright red with a ladder hanging on each side and carried besides a good sized hose. Harold was the name of Godfrey's chum and you never saw one without the other. In fact they were as much alike that lady he had to go past many of the other apartments and the people would call out to him to come in and see them, but he never would just at that time. He would greet everyone with barks and allow them to pet him just for a moment but when they insisted on his coming into the room, he would

FALSE ALARM OF FIRE

Smoke issuing from a new house which is being erected at the corner of 111dareth street and Jewett street, was responsible for a telephone alarm at 3.50 o'clock this morning and the members of Hose Co. No. 12 made a fruitless run to the premises, for when they reached the scene of the alleged fire they found that a good warm fire was going on in a stove in the interior of the house for the purpose of drying up the newly laid plaster.

They were often labeled as "the Godfrey's" and the "ladder" after Godfrey's book, and ladder after almost every boy in the neighborhood came to see it and they soon drew a fire company with Godfrey as captain, Harold as assistant and the boys as firemen. The first time they went to their play area almost everybody in the neighborhood ran to see it.

with four boys as horses and the others shouting as loud as they could. After a few weeks, however, it didn't seem as much excitement and the boys themselves wished something real exciting would happen.

On Saturday the boys had just taken the hook and ladder out and were starting down the street when Geoffrey went looking into the yard next door and saw what looked like a fire. "Boys," he cried, "look, look in the yard," and sure enough there was a pile of dead leaves that were blazing and burning their way toward the house. It didn't take a second for the boys to get there with the hook and ladder and in a second more the house was fastened to the nozzle of the house faucet and a little stream of water was being turned onto the pile of burning leaves.

When the real firemen were given their helmets they gave the old ones to the boys to wear so they felt more like firemen than ever but they never forgot their first fire.

who had a dog named Ace. Ace was a handsome bull terrier with a very homely face and a fat, sleek body which was always kept clean and nice. This is a true story as Ace would tell you himself if he saw you. There were over ninety families who lived in this big apartment house and every family knew Ace and liked him. He would visit each family about once in so often and would bark to them and try his best to carry on a polite conversation, but most of all he liked to visit a lame man in one of the apartments for he

He could roll over and over, sit up on his hind legs, go lame about the room with one leg held up and do lots of other things which entertained the lady, kept her cheerful and made her forget her misfortune.

JAPAN IS CONFRONTED WITH AN INTERNAL POLITICAL CRISIS

TOKIO, Jan. 23.—Japan is confronted with an internal political crisis. The opposition to the administration of Count Terauchi has opened a vigorous campaign on the ground that the Terauchi non-partisan cabinet was formed in violation of the spirit of the constitution. The constitutional party, which has a majority in the house of peers and is under the leadership of Viscount Kato, former minister of foreign affairs, has joined hands with the nationalist group in the lower house for war against the premier.

The battle will be fought out in the Diet, which reconvenes today. Count Terauchi and Viscount Morono, foreign minister, will deliver addresses in defense of the administration. The press expects the outcome of the crisis to be dissolution and a new election.

In his address in the house of peers, Premier Terauchi expressed satisfaction that Japan's relations with the treaty powers, other than the participants in the war, are "more and more cordial." He declared that Japan was working in unreserved union with the allies and said that Germany's peace proposal was rejected because it was not inspired by a sincere desire for treaty powers, other than the participants in the war. He declared that Japan was working in unreserved union with the allies and said that Germany's peace proposal was rejected because it was not inspired by a sincere desire for treaty powers, other than the participants in the war.

The premier declared that the government was paying particular attention to its relations with China and would spare no pains to cultivate friendly relations.

"I need scarcely remind you," continued the premier, "that Japan's policy is an indispensable means of national preservation. Care should always be taken to keep our defense in an absolute condition of efficiency and strength. In due response to the situation among the different powers, our relations with other nations, and in proportion to the wealth and resources of the country."

To be prepared against emergencies is important. The spirit of the people should be invigorated by nursing the nationalistic idea and improving the public health. It is equally important that the national resources be increased and industry and commerce encouraged."

In the course of a lengthy address in which he unequivocally asserted that Germany's ambition for world hegemony was the true cause of the war, Viscount Morono dwelt particularly on the relations between the United States and Japan. Japan, he said, always has wished to maintain the most sincerely amicable relations with America.

"If light clouds," he said, "have occasionally obscured, however so little, the relations of the two countries, they have generally dissipated by the common good will of the two governments. Certainly there exist questions on which our governments may not be in accord, that happens even between allied countries. However, by examining even the thorniest questions loyally and frankly with a determination to settle them in an amicable and conciliatory manner, the means of reaching an understanding are surely found. This is the road which the two governments always have followed to the great satisfaction of the two nations."

"I observe with great joy the symptoms of most genuine sympathy manifested for some time between the two countries. Thus proposals for common action in the financial affairs of China have been made by American capitalists. The imperial government will follow with the liveliest interest the subsequent development and economic rapprochement of the two nations."

Up to date Mr. Pitts has sold 30 Ford cars, his allotment for the season being 300.

The Davis Exhibit

There are two very attractive Davis cars in the centre of the floor and A. Lefebvre, the agent, assisted by several salesmen, are kept busy explaining the good qualities of the different models. One of the cars is a four speed and the other a "Chummy" roadster. It is a beautiful car with maroon body and has been sold to Anthony J. Gavenus of 249 Branch street, this city. The other car is of the sedan type, with royal blue body, seven passenger, two of the seats being concealed when not more than five passengers are in the machine.

Mr. McGarry is assisted in demonstrating by Fred Boyd, Bert Peterson, John McGarry and Joseph Lanthier.

Lowell Motor Mart

The Lowell Motor Mart, "Stephen Rochette, proprietor, has three different makes of cars in an attractive corner of the hall, namely, the Dodge, Chandler Light Six and the new Maxwell. There are three of the Dodge cars there, one being a five passenger with convertible top, another a five passenger touring car and the third a Dodge roadster. The famous Chandler Light Six, seven passenger, touring car attracted considerable attention last night. The Maxwell on exhibition is a five passenger touring car equipped with electric lights and self starter. This machine also has the dual system. Charles Hubbard and O. C. Johnson are assisting Mr. Rochette in explaining the good qualities of the different cars. The Lowell Motor Mart is a fine exhibition of accessories which is in the rear of the hall and in charge of Joseph Schiller.

One of the most attractive cars and the highest price car in the show is the five passenger brougham which is upholstered in plush corduroy and the body finished in "Calumet green." It is a beautiful car and as the people passed by this car last night you could hear one say "Isn't that just beautiful?" "I wish I owned that car" and after looking over the beautiful interior would remark that it was almost too good to sit in. This machine sells for $210.

SEARCHLIGHT ON TELEPHONE CO.

Company Acquiesces in Request of Public Service Board

Chairman Asks $25,000 Fund—E. K. Hall Speaks in Favor

BOSTON, Jan. 23.—The house and means committee of the Massachusetts legislature had a hearing yesterday afternoon on the recommendation of the public service commission for an appropriation of $25,000 to conduct an inquiry into the affairs of the New England Telephone & Telegraph company.

E. K. Hall, vice president of the Telephone company and Chairman Frederick J. Macleod of the public service commission addressed the committee. Mr. Hall's attitude was that neither he nor the company objected to the inquiry, and, although they might not believe it was wholly necessary, they were of the opinion that the commission was the proper body to conduct it.

Mr. Macleod said that the commission is charged by law with the duty of supervising telephones and telegraphs, and it has absolutely no information upon which it may act intelligently.

Mr. Hall explained that the company had for some years been convinced that its own interests and that of the public required some action which would result in the facts relating to the telephone industry being at the disposal of the commission.

"The policy of supervision," he said, "is a fact and must be accepted as such. That being so, exact information by the commission is essential. We have objected in the past to an investigation resulting through a bill introduced by the legislature, but we have had objection to one instituted by the public service commission, as a result of a request in its annual report."

"Last year we decided at first that we would not oppose the request, which came in that way, but later it became plain that we were in for a hard year and were facing many new problems. As a result we asked that the matter go over for a year, and, as it did, we are here now acquiescing in the board's request."

Chairman Macleod said it is proposed to make the inquiry very thorough on the fundamental problems involved. These included, he said, the finances of the company, its capitalization, its methods of doing business and its rates, as well as its relations with other companies, "the Western Electric, for example, he concluded."

"Will the corporation of toll charges to the future of the business be gone into?" asked Representative Atwood.

"That has come up in hearings we have already held," replied Mr. Macleod, "and there is a suspicion that the toll service is not bearing its just proportion of the telephone burden."

Mr. Hall said that there is a public demand that such an inquiry be held, and that the question of rates be passed on by the state.

"Until it is done," he said, "you are going to have bills filed year after year and always a clamor from persons not responsible."

ing to take the place of the promoter of this wonderful exhibition. This show of 1916-17 is a favor to our city, it makes it appear metropolitan. We are now on a par with the large cities in the east in the automobile world. The city of Lowell is naturally pleased and proud to have such a large business affair of this kind started here. It shows prosperity and also indicates that it is a good thing to have business in Lowell. I wish the Lowell automobile dealers every success and hope it will be profitable and also hope that other business will follow the same line and hold shows here."

This honor then referred to the successful industrial exposition held at the Casino a little over a year ago and then introduced Calvin Coolidge, lieutenant governor of the state.

Lieut.-Gov. Coolidge was applauded.

as he arose to speak and during the course of his remarks said:

"Gentlemen, I am sure that I want to extend to you my sincere thanks for the delightful hospitality that your city has extended to me. I come here to represent the commonwealth in behalf of his Excellency, the governor. I want to congratulate you upon your enterprise in taking up and promoting a show of the kind that I am sure awaits us at the Casino. It is something that will advertise the city of Lowell. It is something that the people of your city may well take pride in. I have had the opportunity of coming to your city on a number of occasions and the criticism I think made was that I never stayed long enough. I recall coming here to see your great preparedness parade and saw the wonderful turnout. It was an inspiration to me and an event that I have ever since remembered."

"I have had an interesting experience this evening by sitting beside your mayor and discussing many of the municipal problems. In this city, there is the same condition in every city; that of where shall we get our money? It confronts every municipality. There is only one way to solve it and that is to do all we can to promote and encourage every business enterprise. When you see a man trying to build up the business interests of the city, the man that is helping solve the great social and industrial problems that confront us. There has been too much criticism. It is only by increasing our productions and enlarging our resources that we can meet these public demands."

Robert E. Macdonald, president of the Lowell board of trade, was the next speaker, and said: "This show that is going on at the Casino is going to be a wonderful show. It is something we should all be proud of. It is an exhibition that is going to be a winner."

"Owing to the lack of space it is not as large as we would like to have it for many of the dealers would have placed more cars on exhibition, but when we get that new auditorium the show will be on a much larger and grander scale."

Lowell's Cummings was introduced as the dean of the newspapermen, and stated that he hoped the show would be a grand success for it meant much towards advertising the city and keeping Lowell in the public eye and keeping business in this city. He also congratulated the city of trade and industry for referring especially to the industrial exposition held a year ago.

At the conclusion of the speech-making Lieut. Gov. Coolidge was escorted to the Casino, where he remained until shortly after 9 o'clock when he returned to Boston.

CALLS WILSON'S SPEECH A "SPLENDID POLICY" NOBLY EXPRESSED

LONDON, Jan. 23.—The Manchester Guardian commenting on President Wilson's speech to the senate, calls it a "splendid policy, nobly expressed."

"The speech in form was addressed to the senate but it equally concerns ourselves and our adversaries in the war. The president has no intention of taking any part in the actual negotiations of terms of peace. That he leaves wholly to the belligerents. He simply comes forward now to state in unmistakable terms, both for his own people and for the other people of the world, everyone of whom is directly concerned, what kind of peace it is which he will consent to call upon his countrymen to approve and sustain."

After quoting the chief points in the president's speech in regard to the conditions on which peace must be based, the Guardian continues:

"It is a splendid policy, nobly expressed. How will it be received? By the peoples everywhere we cannot doubt joyfully; by men of good will and enlightenment everywhere not less joyfully and with a clear perception that this is no vision of Utopia but a well thought out and justly framed policy, a map and a great position and versed in great affairs."

Asking how the belligerents will regard it the paper thinks its principles and phrases will be hardly palatable to autocratic rulers or easily reconciled to their traditions and methods of government. But, he says, if the people hear them gladly perhaps the government also may find it wise to find in them a path of safety. As for ourselves they are our terms or if they are not, they ought to be and the mass of the nation will do well to see that their rulers render to them every possible aid and support."

Referring to the president's "noble concluding words" the Guardian says: "These are words which will find an echo in many hearts and words are some times deeds."

Daniel M. Cummings has been appointed a clerk in the office of the assessors to succeed J. Henry Gilbride, who recently resigned to take over the duties of income tax collector. Mr. Cummings is working at present for a chemical company in Wilmington and will take up his new work next Monday. He has taught in the Lowell evening high school. He was first on the list of male eligibles for the position.

J. Henry Gilbride, income tax collector for Middlesex county, opened his new offices, 408-409 Sun building yesterday and reports a fairly brisk business. Mr. Gilbride will have daily office hours from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., including Saturdays for the present. He also has quantities of literature explanatory of the tax law which he will gladly distribute or will send through the mail if so desired.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

A well attended meeting of Local Integrity lodge, I.O.O.F., M.U., was held last night in Odd Fellows' hall. Two propositions for membership were received and acted upon. Noble Grand Frederick C. M. Silk presided. A part of the permanent investigating committee was appointed by N. H. Silk as follows:

Brothers Roland Bezaanson, John Linnekin and P. S. Sidney Fryer.

Remarks were made on the good of the order by Dr. C. B. Livingston, P. L. Williams, Axon of Merrimack Valley lodge, P. L. Williams, W. L. G. Arthur DeLong, P. L. Williams (Hudson, I.S.) to V. G. Joseph Martell and Deputy George Emley.

The auditor's report was made by the chairman and showed all matters in good condition.

An Odd Fellows pin was presented in the most prominent place by all the morning papers and comment as a whole is sympathetic but skeptical. The Belt Parishian says:

"It seems that President Wilson, as in his previous note, has mistakenly placed the states attacked and the aggressors on the same footing, when the distinction was an easy one which he was in conscience bound to make. With that stipulation we can only subscribe to the formula which the president sets forth as a basis of future peace. None of his conceptions can offend us. They are ours. They were ours long before 1917. We certainly will not oppose them. It gives us only pleasure to see these plans for liberty and justice eloquently upheld by Mr. Wilson. But what will Germany and Austria say?"

The Matin says: "In entire agreement with President Wilson as to the principles enunciated by him, we nevertheless shall believe, until more fully informed, that there is a portion of humanity upon which these principles must be imposed by force, for it would be erroneous to suppose they could be led to accept them from conviction."

CALLS SPEECH ASTOUNDING

LONDON, Jan. 23.—The Standard refers to President Wilson's speech as astounding and speaking of German claims of victory and the emperor's letter to the king of Wuertemberg, continues:

"In other words, mediation is premature, and if persisted in could be interpreted as a desire to help the party which already claims to have won. Moreover it is not clear by what title legal or moral, President Wilson assumes that he has some right to shape the destinies of the European continent."

"He did not protest against the infringement of The Hague convention. He has newly expressed the smallest sympathy with the sufferings of France, Belgium, Serbia or Poland. We have heard his voice raised on behalf of suffering humanity only since Germany seemed visibly on the decline. It is really hard to see what locust stand the United States can claim in this matter."

Arthur Laprise at the last meeting. A letter of thanks for sympathy, favors and flowers at the time of the death of V. G. Frank Laprise, from Mrs. Frank Laprise and family, was read.

The lodge closed with form. To meet in this same hall, Odd Fellows Temple, the Staff association, on Sunday morning, Feb. 11, and the lodge proper on Monday evening, Feb. 12.

The regular meeting and joint installation of officers of Divisions 8 and 11 was held in Hibernian hall last night. President, Edward J. Flannery; vice president, Patrick J. Finnerty; recording secretary, John J. Barrett; financial secretary, Thomas Dorsey; treasurer, Nicholas Soraghan; sergeant-at-arms, John O'Sullivan; sentinel, John McGarry; sick committee, Thomas Larkin, Thomas O'Rourke and Hugh McGowan. SUFFERING CATS!

GIVE THIS MAN THE GOLD MEDAL

Let folks step on your feet hereafter; wear shoes a size smaller if you like, for corns will never again send electric sparks of pain through you, according to this Cincinnati authority.

He says that a few drops of a drug called freezone, applied directly upon a tender, aching corn, instantly relieves soreness, and soon the entire corn, root and all, lifts right out.

This drug is a sticky, ever compound, but dries at once and simply shrivels up the corn without irritating or even irritating the surrounding tissue.

It is claimed that a quarter of an ounce of freezone obtained at any drug store will cost very little but is sufficient to remove every hard or tender corn or callus from one's feet. Cut this out, especially if you are a woman reader who wears high heels.
